FRENCH BLOW UP RUSSIAN RADIO STATION

Demolish Towers To Remove Menace to Airlift Planes in Berlin.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Dec. 16—The French today blew up the towers of the Soviet-controlled Radio Berlin, knocking the station off the air.

The Russians, however, have another tower outlet, Germany's old Deutschland sender, 20 miles east of the city.

Brig. Gen. Jean Ganeval, French military commander in Berlin, said the two towers were demolished by French forces this morning. The radio was not on the air at the time.

Ganeval said he was compelled to destroy the towers because they were "a very great danger" to Allied airlift planes coming in by radar to the new Tegel field in the French sector. The towers were near the field.

Management Notified

The French commander said he had notified the Berlin radio station management on Nov. 20 the demolition would take place today in order to allow the management time to arrange new installations in another sector. He said the demolition took place without incident.

German postal authorities said the French not only blew up the radio towers, but also the control installations for the towers.

Demolishing the towers climaxed a long four-power dispute over radio Berlin.

The radio station itself is located in the British sector. The Russians have successfully resisted British efforts to force them from the station, which they took over when Berlin fell.

Insisted on Control

When the western powers came to Berlin the Russians insisted they retain control of the radio station, saying it was their only broadcast outlet to the Soviet zone.

The Russians posted armed soldiers at entrances to the building and no one was allowed in without a special pass.

As the East-West position worsened in Berlin the British were urged by the other western powers to take over the station which broadcast long tirades against the Western Allies.

The British did not take action because of the danger of an incident involving British and Soviet troops.

It also was felt the Russians might retaliate by cutting off all cable communication between Berlin and the Soviet zone.

Today's French action came as a surprise to many, although the French communique said Berlin radio had been warned in advance.

In his statement Ganeval said that since Tegel airfield began operating at full capacity under the airlift planes have been coming and going under all weather conditions.

Oil Field Veteran of 41 Years Is Drilling Marion County Well

Bruce Dibble of Kenton Has Record of Coast to Coast Operations.

By SCOTT McMURRAY

Nelson Bruce Dibble, 57, of Kenton, boss driller on the oil and gas well being drilled on the former Judge Norris farm nine miles east of Marion, is one of the last and youngest of the famed "wildcat drillers" still active locally in oil and gas drilling.

At 57, Bruce Dibble, as his friends know him, has 41 years of oil field experience behind him. He has run "strings of tools" (a driller's name for a drilling rig) all the way from New York state to the shores of the Pacific at Long Beach, California.

Mr. Dibble, a native of Van Wert county, Ohio, started his oil field career on what he terms "the toughest and dirtiest job in the field," as an old-time wooden rig builder. Back in 1907 all oil drilling derricks were built of wood but it took iron men to erect those towering wooden structures used to wrest oil from deep in the ground.

Started Near Ashland

Mr. Dibble started his first rig building job in the old Ashland, Ohio oil excitement, at age 17.

By 1912 he had moved on to the Wooster, O., oil boom and advanced to the job of tool dresser. He finally became a driller in 1913 in the oil field then active near Cleveland.

Oil fields then were a far cry from the mechanized forest of steel they have become today. Sweating and swearing teamsters drove large teams of straining horses through seas of deep mud to move every piece of equipment. The supreme test of a teamster was his ability to bring in the long, high and heavy steam boilers which powered the steam engines which ran the drilling machinery.

He recalls his first experience at seeing a truck in an oil field. It was in the big oil excitement near McKeesport, Pa., after he had moved there from the Medina, O., oil field where he worked from 1917 to 1919. Oil "excitement" in those days meant just that, Mr. Dibble says.

Action at McKeesport

When oil was found in a new field investors flocked to put money into the operation, and where money is you'll find those to earn it. He recalls that in the winter of 1920, near McKeesport, 900 drilling outfits were in action in one oil field at one time.

After McKeesport, Mr. Dibble moved to a new oil boom opening in Ranger, Texas. The mud was so thick in the streets of the new town some enterprising fellow built a footwalk across the main street and did a rushing business charging people 25 cents each to cross the street.

He next drilled wells in the Cisco, Texas field and finally in the "panhandle" oil fields at Borger, Texas.

By 1923 the Texas oil fields had begun to level off from the boom stage and Mr. Dibble headed back east to work on the newest oil fields then opening up at Silver Creek, N. Y.

He worked in the New York state oil fields 10 years in Chautauqua, Erie, and Cattaraugus counties.

Goes To Kenton

In 1933 he moved to Kenton, O. where he drilled eight wells. Before leaving New York state he took time off to come to Kane, Pa., near the scene of the famed Drake well, first oil well ever drilled, to sink the deepest hole he ever drilled, which strangely enough was not an oil well. In 1929 at Kane he drilled a hole for geological survey purposes which was 7,928 feet deep.

The widest diameter well he ever drilled was in 1922 in Texas where the soil formation was such he had to start an oil well drilling a hole which at the top of the ground was 22 inches in diameter. As the well progressed deeper and deeper the size of the drill was reduced until by the time oil was reached the driller was working in a hole only five and three-sixteenths inches in diameter. This well required 22 carloads of pipe to use as casing, he recalls.

After finishing at Kenton in 1933 Mr. Dibble moved to Tucson, Arizona to spend the winter in 1934. He went only to spend the winter in a long-awaited vacation, and planned to do no work during the winter.

Vacation "Cut Short"

A banker friend there who owned an interest in a well which was being drilled, not very successfully, prevailed on him to take the job of fishing some tools from the well, lost there by some rotary drill operators from California. Mr. Dibble fished the tools out and found the Californians, unfamiliar with the cable style drilling machine being used, had drilled the well crooked. He filled the well with enough rock to bore it in straight again and finished the well for his

Arrange Yule Program At Children's Home

Observance of the Christmas season at the Marion County Children's Home this year will be marked by the appearance of a number of Marion choral groups who will present the traditional anthems in a series of programs each night next week, it was announced today by Mac D. Metz, superintendent at the home.

The various church choirs and choral groups will sing from the steps of the home, two groups each night starting Monday and continuing through Thursday night.

Programs at 7:30 p. m.

The first group will present their numbers at 7:30 p. m. each night, and following the conclusion of the singing, the second organization will give its program.

The Christmas music which Mr. Metz estimated would approximate an hour long program each night, will be presented in a traditional setting which features a full size representation of the Nativity.

The manger scene complete with all the Biblical figures has been erected on the lawn to the front and south of the home. It will be floodlighted by courtesy of the Ohio Public Service Co., which in addition has provided for the lighting of a large tree on the lawn near the scene.

The scene itself is about 9 by 12 feet in size with the central figure sincluding representations of Mary, Joseph and the Wise Men, in life size. Its erection was made possible through contributions of Marion civic and fraternal organizations, Mr. Metz said.

First Program Monday

First of the programs will comprise the Harding High school choir at 7:30 p. m. Monday followed by the Emanuel Baptist church choir at 8 p. m. Mr. Metz emphasized the programs were open to the public as they are to be presented from the long porch extending across the front of the Home.

The series will be concluded Christmas Eve when the 44 children present their own program of carols and Christmas music from the porch prior to the regular program held inside in the chapel.

The children's traditional Christmas Eve program will include a Christmas play, reading and recitations climaxed by appearance of Santa Claus.

"KITTY HAWK" STORY IN THE STAR TODAY

Tomorrow will mark the 45th anniversary of the first flight of man in a heavier-than-air machine and in observance of the occasion there will be a special program at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.

The event will also celebrate return to the United States of the Wright brothers' airplane, the "Kitty Hawk," which made the historic flight.

An account of the flight, along with several other stories and statistics relating to the anniversary, appears on page 14 of The Star today.

HOOVER GROUP HOPES TO TRIM DEFENSE COSTS

Says System "Enormously" Costly; Recommends Overhaul, Unification.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—This country's national defense system is "enormously" costly and its machinery needs overhauling, a Hoover commission "task force" reported today.

A 211-page critique said the unified military establishment set up by law last year "is, on the whole, soundly constructed, but it is not yet working well."

A 14-member advisory committee to the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, cautioned that Russian strategy may be to keep American defense costs mounting in an effort to gain "victory by bankruptcy."

Six Point Program

The committee recommends this six-point program to hold dollar outlays within bounds and improve the operations of the security setup:

1. Give the secretary of defense more direct control over the three armed forces because his present "difficulties lie in vague authority."

2. Take steps to assure a "fuller measure of teamwork" among the offices and services which compose the national military establishment and the top-level national security organization.

3. Overhaul the military budget system because the "military services are far too prodigal with government funds."

The committee said strategic plans presented by the armed forces to the munitions board last fall called for an outlay of $80,000,000,000 and the initial estimates for the fiscal year beginning next July 6 "added up to more than $30,000,000,000."

This was scaled down to $15,000,000,000 only by "the most earnest effort" by Secretary of Defense Forrestal and a specific directive from President Truman, the report said.

4. Relate scientific research more closely to strategic planning.

The failure to have war planning geared to feasible scientific developments was said to constitute "one of the most glaring deficiencies in the whole panorama of the national security organization."

The joint chiefs of staff (the commanders of Army, Navy and Air Force) "feel that their strategic responsibility must not be impaired, yet the simple fact is that the joint chiefs of staff is not now equipped for technical evaluation." Such evaluation requires scientific analysis "of a sort not generally found in uniform." (Forrestal yesterday announced the creation of a joint chiefs-research board group on weapons evaluation.)

5. Speed up plans for civilian mobilization in case of war, including economic, industrial and manpower mobilization. In another section, the committee said the condition of the nation's stockpile of strategic materials needed for a war is "deplorable."

6. Make adequate provision for use of and protection against "unconventional means of warfare." This includes "not only the atom bomb, but the other radiological and biological and chemical weapons that have appeared, definitely and terribly, upon the horizon of warfare."

Rejects 3 Recommendations

The committee said it had rejected three recommendations made by witnesses who appeared before it:

1. A single chief of staff and general staff for all three services. "This tremendous authority should not be transferred from civilian to military hands, with consequent danger to our democratic institutions," the report said. But two of the 14-man civilian committee dissented on this point—John J. McCloy, former assistant secretary of war, and Chester I. Barnard.

New Spy Sensations Promised by Probers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—Congressional spy hunters today promised new and up-to-the-minute sensations now that the celebrated Hiss-Chambers case shifts from Capitol Hill to a federal court room.

Yesterday's federal grand jury indictment of Alger Hiss, former high state department official, on two counts of lying under oath satisfied the house Un-American activities committee that it has nailed down evidence of a pre-war Soviet espionage ring. Hiss pleaded innocent to the indictment today.

Now the committee intends to prove members insist that Red spying still is going on in the government.

They claim that a man still working for the Army as a civilian stole secrets of the famous Norden bomb sight and passed them along to Russia in 1938.

In the grand jury indictment handed down in New York Hiss was accused of having sworn falsely(A) that he did not give secret state department papers to Whittaker Chambers a decade ago and (B) that the did not talk to the confessed former Communist spy ring courier during February and March of 1938.

Hiss issued a statement insisting his testimony had been true.

Documents Released

But even as the committee switched its main efforts away from the Hiss-Chambers case, it turned loose 26 more documents it said were among those Chambers claimed he got from Hiss.

These covered such then top-secret information as a possible trade treaty with Germany, Japanese troop movements, efforts of some top Nazis to persuade Hitler not to move prematurely against Czechoslovakia and Japanese efforts to raise money in the United States.

Only two of the documents were reproduced from the microfilm Chambers fished out of a pumpkin on his Maryland farm two weeks ago. The rest were among papers Chambers turned over to attorneys preparing for the trial of Hiss' $75,000 libel suit against him.

The paper dealing with a possible German trade treaty—a memorandum which referred several times to the approaching 1938 and 1940 elections—was cited by Rep. Mundt (R-SD), acting committee chairman, as proof of his contention that American foreign policy sometimes is influenced by domestic politics.

Plea for Chambers Undecided

Mundt said it is uncertain whether the committee will question Chambers again now that the grand jury subpoena no longer detains him, or whether it will quiz other people Chambers has said were part of the pre-war Red underground here.

A decision will be made after consultation with the justice department, the South Dakotan said. If the justice department doesn't object on the ground that prospective witnesses will be needed at the Hiss trial they will be called at once.

Right now, Mundt told newsmen, the committee has two objectives:

1. To determine " the full part that the Communist party in America plays as an adjunct of foreign espionage agents."

2. What new laws are needed to make continuing espionage "and the employment of disloyal people impossible."

Mundt took back some of the nasty things he had said about the justice department's handling of the spy case. "I congratulate the attorney general's office and the grand jury on their diligent devotion to duty," he said.

But he took a fresh dig at President Truman, who long has been critical of the committee. Mundt wound up a statement on the indictment last night with these words:

"In conclusion may I express the hope that nobody will ever again refer to this case as a red herring."

Find Clues In Guam Murder

Hope Discoveries Will Lead to Slayer of Hardin County Man's Fiancee.

By The United Press

AGANA, GUAM, Dec. 16—Military authorities hoped today that blood-stained trousers and undershorts found in the barracks might lead to the slayers of the "most beautiful girl on Guam," Ruth Farnsworth, 27-year-old civilian Navy employe.

But investigation of a blood-stained shirt which also was found had determined that its owner was not involved in the brutal attack on Miss Farnsworth. The stains had resulted from a minor accident in which the serviceman was involved, it was learned.

Maj. John Copeland of London, O., chief of the Guam police, said no arrests were anticipated immediately, but indicated that two men, who were not named, were involved in the investigation as a result of discovery of the blood-stained clothing.

The clothing was turned over to authorities by an informer, Maj. Copeland said.

Two or More Involved

Authorities believe, Mr. Copeland indicated, that two or more men were involved in the attack upon Miss Farnsworth. She was dragged last Saturday night from a jade shop where she worked part time into a nearby jungle, violated and fatally beaten.

Unconscious and with her clothing ripped off, she was found 24

RIVERS FLOOD COUNTY ROADS

Rains Send Water Over Roads in Marion and Other Counties.

Heavy rains of the last few days are sending rivers and streams out of their banks in Marion and other Ohio counties.

Some Marion and Wyandot county highways are flooded and 10 other Ohio counties reported roads under water.

The nation as a whole was experiencing a hodge-podge of weather. Some areas swiftly changed from sweltering to fur coat temperatures as the mercury played tricks with the weather man. A strange mixture of snow, sleet and rain, called "graupel" by weather bureaus, hit New York City.

Roads Flooded In Marion, Other Counties

State highways in Marion and 12 other Ohio counties are flooded by high waters, the highway patrol reports.

Last night's heavy rain pushed rising waters over six inches deep over route 95 three miles east of LaRue.

State highway engineers predicted route 203 at Prospect would be flooded by nightfall if waters of the Scioto river continued to rise.

Walter Fetter, county road supervisor, maintained unceasing patrol of county roads 38 and 37 as County Engineer Walter Johnson predicted both these roads might be cut off by rising waters.

Route 30-S Threatened

A late report from state highway engineers indicated route 30-S just east of Caledonia, might be cut off by flood waters from the swiftly rising Olentangy river. Only six inches above the muddy torrent at noon state engineers expected route 30-S to be cut off before dark, unless the river's rise ceases.

Route 294 in Wyandot county was flooded early today from Brownstown to route 37, the highway patrol reported.

A weather forecast of "cloudy with showers" gave no hint of relief from the rains. Colder weather was forecast for the south portion of the state where a partial clearing was expected tonight. Friday's weather will be partly cloudy and colder with snow flurries near Lake Erie, the weatherman said.

Other Roads Closed

High water blocked sections of at least 10 other highways in central and southern Ohio today as an aftermath of unseasonable heavy rains, The Associated Press reported.

Most rivers were rising, but the Hocking was the only one near flood stage. It reached 14.85 feet last night at Athens. Flood stage there is 17 feet.

Five highways, including U. S. route 50, were closed in the Athens areas. A washed-out fill blocked traffic on Ohio 123 near Blanchester, and three other state roads were closed in the Portsmouth area.

The Ohio river rose eight feet in seven hours at Portsmouth, but the 22-foot reading was far below flood stage. The Big and Little Miami rivers also were rising, but there was no flood threat.

Rainfall at Cincinnati yesterday totaled 3.1 inches and the Ohio river rose 6.1 feet to 19.5 feet there.

Temperatures in the 60's were general from Columbus south yesterday. However, Cleveland's high reading was 43 and Toledo had a high of 42. Cincinnati's 66.4 was an all-time high for Dec. 15. So was the 65 at Columbus.

There were flash floods yesterday in several southern Ohio areas. In the Portsmouth region, several stores and homes were

FUNDS RAISED IN WAR USED FOR PURCHASE

Haberman House at Main St. and Delaware Ave. Acquired by Committee.

Formal announcement was made last night by the trustees of the Marion Veterans' Memorial Fund that final negotiations have been completed on purchase of the Haberman homestead at the junction of Delaware avenue and South Main street for a veterans' home.

Announcement of the purchase came at a meeting of the trustees called by Robert E. White and held at the office of the Marion Chamber of Commerce. Plans were discussed relative to development of the property for use by the veterans' groups in the city and a committee named to map plans for alterations. Formation of a planning and development committee is provided for under the by-laws governing the administration of the Memorial Fund.

Committee Members

Named on the committee were Richard M. Miller, United Spanish War Veterans; E. W. Koeppen, D. A. V.; Stanley Wormell, V. F. W.; J. W. Llewellyn, Bird-McGinnis Post 162, American Legion; William Rizor, G. I. Post 594, American Legion; E. L. Cleveland, Marion Navy club; and James E. Smith, civilian representative.

The committe was instructed to map plans for alterations and changes in the building necessary for a suitable veterans home and report back to trustees for approval. Action is expected shortly after the first of the year.

The new housing committee held an organization meeting immediately following the meeting of fund trustees and named Paul Simpson as chairman and E. W. Koeppen, secretary.

The Memorial Fund building committee had taken an option on the home earlier in the year from the estate of the late Harry W. Haberman and with the completion of final negotiations the home, at one time one of the city's "show places", became the property of the association. At one time it was one of the city's "show places". Recently the headquarters of the state highway patrol substation were located in the home. Purchase price was approximately $24,500.

$61,000 in Fund

Fund trustees expressed thanks and appreciation to Ray Prichard and Wilson Jones who helped negotiate the sale to the Veterans Memorial Inc. Purchase of the property expends approximately half of the $51,102 raised in financial campaigns conducted during 1945 by the fund trustees.

Heading the campaign at that time were the late C. C. Roberts and Otis Porter, chairman of an active campaign committee which included representation from Marion civic, fraternal service and veterans' organizations.

The original 18 trustees named to administer the fund include Mr. White, Ben T. Wiant, Mr. Llewellyn, Mr. Wormell, Harry E. Baker, Fred F. Miller, J. L. Ralston, Mr. Koeppen, Dr. T. H. Sutherland, E. M. Breithaupt, Mr. Cleveland, N. V. Foreman, Fred Morrison, James C. Woods, John Dugan and five others who have since died. They included James E. Messenger, E. E. Glosser, E. J. Schoeniaub, Alfred Donithen, George T. Gerig and C. C. Roberts.

REDS SWARM INTO PEIPING SUBURBS

By The Associated Press

PEIPING, Dec. 16—The sound of rifle fire punctuates the crisp air of Peiping today, but within the Communist-encircled city's ancient walls life goes on much as usual.

The city has not fallen, although the Reds are swarming over its suburbs and rolling toward the thick arched gates.

The fighting appears relatively small-scale and concentrated mostly west of the city walls. Small arms fire is occasionally interspersed by mortar bursts and some light artillery which can be heard clearly throughout Peiping.

The Reds thus far have thrown only small forces into the attack, evidently reserving their main strength for an attempt to battle up the city if Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, government commander of north China, decides to fight all the way.

Three state officers were delegated to carry the proposal and supporting evidence to Governor Herbert. They are State Health Director John D. Porterfield; R. M. Garrison, school supervisor of the state department of education, and Judge Henry J. Robison, chief of the state division of social administration.

Wright Plane's Formal Welcome Home Set For Friday on 45th Anniversary of 1st Flight

[illegible] with which man shook loose gravity's grip is home after 20 years in exile. A formal welcome will be held in connection with exhibit hall of the Smithsonian Institution. The story of the first plane flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C. Dec. 17, 1903 and highlights of the eventful years between are told in the following anniversary article.)

By JAMES J. STREBIG
AP Aviation Reporter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—Ice had formed overnight on rain puddles in the sand packed sands of Kitty Hawk, N. C. two young men huddled over a stove and gazed out at the wind whipped ocean and the desolate mainland.

It was early morning, Dec. 17, 1903. The wind speed indicator fluttered between 24 and 27 miles an hour.

At 10 o'clock, Wilbur and Orville Wright hung out a signal for the men at Kill Devil life saving station, and soon three Coast Guardsmen and two other visitors trooped in. They began the business of laying a 60-foot single rail on a level stretch of sand.

The flying machine was trundled out and balanced on the rail. There were last minute checks of guy wires and fastenings before Orville, then 32, crawled aboard on his belly, fitted his hips into a cradle, grasped the control level, warmed up the engine, pulled the wire that loosed the craft's mooring, and started slowly along the rail.

Wilbur trotted alongside, balancing the plane by holding the right wing tip. After 40 feet of rolling and sliding along the track, the plane rose into the air for an unsteady journey of 120 feet before a sudden downward dart sent it bumping along the sand.

ORVILLE WRIGHT described the incident in a letter:

"This flight lasted only 12 seconds, but it was nevertheless the first in the history of the world in which a machine carrying a man had raised itself by its own power into the air in full flight, had sailed forward without reduction of speed, and had finally landed at a point as high as that from which it started."

The witnesses were John T. Daniels, who snapped a pre-aimed camera as the plane rose; W. S. Dough and A. D. Etheridge, all Coast Guardsmen; W. C. Brinkley of Manteo, and Johnny Moore, a boy from Nagshead who is the only living member of the group.

After the first successful run the machine was hauled back to the starting point.

It was Wilbur's turn. He flew nearly 200 feet in 13 seconds. Orville made the third flight, going over 200 feet in 15 seconds. Wilbur made the fourth journey above the sand, a spectacular trip of 852 feet in 59 seconds. However, in landing the support for the front rudder was broken.

It was now after noon. They went to the shack, prepared lunch then sent a telegram to their father, Bishop Milton Wright in Dayton.

Few persons accepted the report as fact for a long time.

WILBUR AND ORVILLE were the third and fourth sons of Bishop Wright, of the United Brethren church and Susan Catherine Koerner Wright. They ran a bicycle shop in Dayton, O.

As boys they were taught early to earn the money they wanted to spend, gained a thirst for knowledge, a habit of tinkering and developing and a practice of making decisions for themselves.

How thorough they were in planning is shown by a single achievement the first airplane they ever built powered by the first multiple cylinder engine they ever built, using the first propellers they ever built—all based on their own research—flew successfully.

So far as anyone can foresee now, the principles developed will be sound bases for flight as long as aircraft have wings.

The Wrights' first offer of the "flying machine" was to the War department. They dealt with the British, French and German governments before the United States army finally purchased one in 1909 for $30,000, including a $5,000 bonus for exceeding speed requirements.

THE ORIGINAL PLANE had cost $1,000 without allowance for the brothers' time, but they spent many thousands of dollars more in development and promotion of the Wright "flyer" before the first sale.

Flight test headquarters were set up at Huffman's pasture, a 68-acre field northeast of Dayton. The first full circle was flown Sept. 20, 1904. By the end of the 1905 season a single flight of 38 minutes covering 24 miles in circles and "S" turns had been achieved. The brothers devoted most of 1906 and 1907 to building up protection for their patent.

Public flight demonstrations were begun in France in 1908 by Wilbur in August, and at Fort Myer by Orville in September. Within a year Louis Bleriot crossed the English channel by air.

So rapidly did interest in flying develop that the first international air race was held in France in 1909. The United States saw its first air race at Belmont Park, New York, in 1910. Four years later the first commercial passenger flight was made in Tony Benoist's flying boat from St. Petersburg to Tampa, Fla.

The first World war brought a pooling of the nation's aviation talent. The great strides forward were clearly seen in the years that followed.

THAT IS THE ERA known informally as the "golden age of aviation." Records were everywhere waiting to be broken—and from 1919 to 1933, daring young men and women busied themselves doing it.

The Wright Brothers' first plane was sent to London by Orville Wright in 1928.

The Wrights had won a dozen patent suits in this country and other in Europe as they fought to uphold in law the achievement all recognized in the air. There was no question about who made the first human flight. The issue was whether the Wrights had discovered the secret of how to do it.

When Glenn H. Curtiss of Hammondsport, N. Y., organized the Herring-Curtiss company in 1909 to engage in aircraft manufacture and flight exhibitions, Federal Judge John R. Hazel granted a restraining order, recognizing the brothers as pioneers in the flying art. The United States court of appeals upheld the Wrights in 1914.

A few months later Curtiss asked permission of the Smithsonian Institution to make new flight tests with the Langley Aerodrome. This machine, designed by Dr. Samuel P. Langley, Smithsonian secretary, with government aid had failed a short time before the Wrights first flew.

THE LANGLEY PLANE was greatly modified for the trials so that structurally and aerodynamically it was a different machine. In that condition it made a couple of five-second hops.

Thereafter, using a report written by Dr. Albert F. Zahm, an associate of Langley, the Smithsonian Institution announced that the original Langley machine without modification was the first craft capable of powered flight with a man.

That could be tremendously important to the Wrights. Wilbur had died in 1912. Orville resented not only the claim that the secret of flying had been discovered by others but was concerned as well with the possibility of having numerous successful court actions overturned.

Orville's quarrel was with Dr. Charles D. Walcott, Langley's successor as Smithsonian secretary in 1907 and held the position until his death in 1927.

The Kitty Hawk went to England in 1928. A few months later Dr. Charles G. Abbot, now retired, became Smithsonian secretary. He tried immediately to settle the quarrel and have the famous flyer returned. With all his eagerness, it required 15 years to reach agreement.

In fact, it did not become certain until after Orville's death last Jan. 30 that he had asked the British to send the plane home.

WRIGHT MECHANIC UNABLE TO ATTEND

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16—An elderly mechanic who shared in the historic creation of man's first airplane flight won't be on hand tomorrow when the Wright Brothers' "Flyer" is officially welcomed back to American soil from a 20-year exile in England.

Charles E. Taylor, who was mechanic for the Wright brothers, is now 81 and his doctor told him the trip from Los Angeles for the ceremonies at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington tomorrow would endanger his health.

Taylor, in an interview, said he had been invited by Paul E. Garber, curator of aeronautics for the institution, to supervise the installation of the "Kitty Hawk" in the National Museum in Washington.

"I wanted very much to make that trip east—they were even going to pay my expenses," said Taylor, whose chief income now is an $800 annual pension left him by Orville Wright, who died last January. "The doctor said the change in climate would be bad for my heart, though."

Taylor recalled that he repaired the plane after its first momentous flights at Kitty Hawk, N. C. "The wind blew the plane over while it was standing on the ground and wrecked some parts," said Taylor. "That was right after its fourth flight in December, 1903, and the Wrights asked me to fix it up quick. I did, and they gave me some of the parts."

The mechanic also has some spruce and cotton pieces as souvenirs of the craft.

He said he made the airplane's drive shaft by literally carving up a block of steel. "No dies, no presses, no nothing in those days," he said. "Just hopes, plans and long, hard work."

Taylor commented that he is glad to see the plane back in the United States. "I can't blame the Wrights for putting it on display in England, though," he added. "Both Orville and Wilbur had a hard time trying to get anyone in the United States government interested in their flying machine."

WRIGHTS' TUNNEL GOES TO MIAMI U.

By The United Press

OXFORD, O., Dec. 1—The wind tunnel in which the Wright brothers performed all of their experiments has been given to Miami university by a group of heirs of the Wright estate, it was announced today.

John E. Dolibois, executive secretary of the Miami Alumni association, said the "historically invaluable" tunnel was purchased from the estate by heirs who are Miami and Oxford college alumni.

The wind tunnel, approximately 20 feet in length, will be reassembled on the campus here and used by the department of aeronautics.

Dolibois said the university will also receive a number of books from the late Orville Wright's private library. The books were obtained by Milton Wright Sr., one of the Wright heirs and vice president of the Miami Alumni association of Dayton.

The heirs who purchased the tunnel for presentation to Miami university are Mr. and Mrs. Milton L. Wright Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Horace A. Wright, Mrs. H. S. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wilkinson Wright and Milton L. Wright Jr., all of Dayton.

Christmas Tree Ready For Gifts for Needy

The tree is growing short for on it Christmas morning remembering that boy or girl who would be oh so happy to find a new shirt, pair of sox mittens, coat, dress or just any article of clothing with his or her name on it.

The place for just such a gift is under the large Christmas tree on the first floor at Uhler's Department store, the time—any time you're down town shopping the need—some 535 children who will be forgotten by Santa Claus unless the more fortunate folks remember.

The tree is part of a nationwide movement to provide gifts of clothing for underprivileged children to be distributed by the Salvation Army. The gifts may be purchased in any store and may be anything in the way of clothing. Known as the Christmas Tree Caravan, the movement is sponsored by the National Retail Dry Goods association with the cooperation of radio newspapers and department stores across the nation.

The donor is asked to mark on the outside of the package what it contains whether it is for a boy or girl and what age. The gifts are to be given to the parents who in turn will give them to the children as a part of the family Christmas observance. The list of those receiving the gifts are made up by Miss Vivian Hall of the Marion county welfare department, Judge Edward J. Ruzzo of the juvenile court and A. T. Allen, director of pupil personnel in the city schools.

Cecil Gabler, chairman of the youth committee of the Salvation Army, and his committee, Cutler McGrew, Mr. Allen, Judge Ruzzo and Rev. R. W. Faulkner, are cooperating with the stores in the project.

HEAD GIFT DRIVE Walter Hoving (left), chairman of the Christmas Tree Caravan Committee and Ernest L. Pugmire, Salvation Army national commander, look over at New York poster used in drive to collect gifts for needy children. Posters have been placed in stores beside places for public to put gifts to be distributed by the organization.

RICHMAN BROTHERS

HAVE THE VALUES

27.50 • 34.50 • 39.50

Now that people have grown tired of paying too much for too little, it is well to remember that Richman Brothers have the values . . . not just when value-giving is easy, but at all times, and under all conditions.

In fact value-giving is a seventy-year-old tradition at Richman Brothers . . . an established policy that is backed by a tailoring family of 2500 clothes makers and 62 great stores that stretch from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast.

And what a value-giving record Richman Brothers have! Before the war, during it, and ever since, we've constantly worked to keep quality up and prices down . . . a record achieved in the face of endless handicaps and temptations.

Stop in and see our selection of Fall and Winter suits, topcoats and overcoats. It is the best in years . . . and in case you've forgotten, our prices are still only $27.50, $34.50, $39.50. Where else, in all the world, does so little still buy so much?

Also HATS, SLACKS, and FURNISHINGS!

Theater To Be Closed To Install New Seats

The Ohio theater will be closed temporarily for several days beginning today to enable new seats and carpets to be installed as a part of the remodeling program now underway at the theater, the management announced. The theater will reopen Christmas day with a double feature, "Phantom of the Opera" and "Al. Baba and the Forty Thieves."

GUAM

hours later, and she died early Tuesday without regaining consciousness.

Many servicemen have been questioned in the case, but none have been held for any length of time.

A navy court of inquiry headed by Rear Admiral Charles Murphy is aiding in the investigation. Adm. Murphy said scrapings taken from the girl's fingernails and other specimens have been sent to Washington for examination by the federal bureau of investigation. A stained pair of paratrooper-type boots which were found near the scene of the crime were sent to the FBI for examination several days ago.

Ship Leaves Dec. 24

A ship carrying Miss Farnsworth's body to San Francisco, the home of her mother, for burial, will leave Guam Christmas eve. Aboard it as an escort will be her fiance, Marine Sgt. Sterling McGinnis of near Roundhead in Hardin county who was granted a compassionate furlough.

Sgt. McGinnis said he met Miss Farnsworth in October, 1946, and that they became engaged in May of this year. Sgt. McGinnis, a 22-year-old veteran of Saipan, Tinian and Iwo Jima, described her as "religious, quiet and wonderful."

The sergeant will return to Guam after the burial in San Francisco to complete his tour of duty.

In a telegram the sergeant asked his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl McGinnis of near Roundhead, to meet him in San Francisco and be there for the funeral. The ship is expected to arrive in the states Jan. 10. Granted a 10-day furlough, Sgt. McGinnis will not be able to visit his home.

president of the Rockefeller Foundation.

2 Merger of the three armed forces into a single "department of defense" The "sincere and deeply held differences dividing the services cannot and should not be removed by fiat" the report said, adding that such a move probably would do more to intensify the split than it would to lessen them. Former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson dissented saying "the military establishment will not be on a sound organizational basis with waste reduced to a minimum, until we have a single department of defense." Under the present unification system the three forces are separate departments, coordinated by the office of secretary of defense.

3 Merger of the naval air arm with the Air Forces - rejected on the ground that it would be unsafe to "put all our eggs in one basket." Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck and Co., dissented, saying the matter "is a tremendous one" and should receive more study—preferably by congress.

LAUNCH FINAL DRIVE FOR KENTON HOSPITAL

$75,000 Needed To Get Federal Grant.

KENTON—Sparked by the assurance of a $104,000 government grant of funds toward the completion of Hardin Memorial Hospital, the officers and committees of the hospital today launched a final drive for immediate new contributions in the amount of $75,000.

Allotment of the government grant is contingent upon the raising of the additional $75,000 by popular subscription, it was announced. This will be all the money needed by donation to complete the erection and to fully equip the hospital.

Under the terms of the federal grant, added facilities will be required to bring the cost of the total project to approximately half a million dollars. The new features will include a complete pediatric ward, a convalescent ward, and other departments not in the original plans.

Approximately $225,000 already has been raised by public contributions in Hardin county.

The federal grant will be made through the Ohio Director of Health, who with an advisory committee has completed a study of the local situation and has recommended the allocation.

The grant will be made on the basis of an estimated $332,000 to be required for completion of the project, and calls for $104,000 from the government. $104,000 by public subscription, and a loan of $104,000. The reason that only $75,000 is needed through public donations at this time is that the advisory committee gives the local hospital credit for approximately $30,000 of usable materials already purchased.

The federal funds will not be turned over until the additional $75,000 is raised. Assurances also have been given that the $104,000 loan will be available. The hospital board is hopeful that all funds will be on hand so that contracts for the complete structure may be let by Feb. 1, 1949.

Here's what the Kroger manager in one Indiana town does — besides managing the Kroger store. He's Chairman of the Board of Trustees of his Church; treasurer of the Exchange Club, and Commander of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars. In addition he is an active member of the Retail Merchants' Association and a diligent Red Cross worker. Kroger managers—like Kroger stores—belong in the communities they serve.

Irish Play First Home Game Tonight

CONFERS WITH ATTORNEYS. Art Shires, former major league baseball player, confers with his attorneys, Burt Barr (left) and Leland M. Johnson (center) in courtroom of Justice of the Peace W. L. Sterret at Dallas, Tex., during preliminary hearing of a murder charge for Shires. Shires was charged Dec. 7 in the death of W. H. Erwin, former professional baseball player and umpire. The hearing was continued until Dec. 16.

Host Marysville In Mid-State Encounter

The Marion St. Mary basketball squad will play a cage contest of firsts tonight against Marysville at Edison. The game is the first Irish home affair and also the team's first Mid-State league encounter.

Coach Treese Sharrock's men will be out to break their deadlocked season record. They have won two and lost the same number. By alternating their wins the Irish have yet to take two straight—another first they will try to pull off tonight.

Strangely enough, the St. Mary cagers have yet to win or lose a game by more than six points. And if the pattern keeps up tonight's contest should be a tie. They won the first game of the season by five points, lost the second by six, lost the third by two, and won their last one.

Marion basketball fans will see the same starting five that has played much of the four road games before tonight's contest. Bill Merchant and Jimmy Cusick will be the forwards, Bill Moloney the center, and guards Corky Cusick and Ed Moloney. Coach Sharrock said Nick Maniaci has been playing a good game and should be in as a guard tonight.

The man to stop tonight will be Marysville's center Dayton. He's tall and in the Monarch games to date has controlled rebounds from the backboard.

By The Associated Press

PATERSON, N. J., Dec. 16—Heavyweight champion Joe Louis meets Paterson's Pat Comiskey tonight in a six-round affair billed as an exhibition.

For Comiskey it will be a chance to exhibit whether he is good enough to rate a fight with Ezzard Charles.

Charles' manager, Jake Mintz, has said the bout, tentative for Jan. 14 in Cleveland, depends largely on Comiskey's showing tonight.

Louis, as in all of his other exhibitions, will be putting his crown on the line, when he walks into the ring.

88 NOMINATED FOR SANTA ANITA DERBY

By The Associated Press

ARCADIA, Calif., Dec. 16—Eighty-eight coming three-year-olds headed by the Maine Chance Farm's Mr. Busher and Myrtle Charm, were nominated for the 1949 $100,000 Santa Anita derby.

Rated one of the best fields made eligible for the Santa Anita derby, which will be run Feb. 19 at a mile and one eighth, the list released today includes 18 winners of 28 stakes.

Myrtle Charm was acclaimed as the best two-year-old filly this year, and won the Matron and Spinaway stakes and ran second to Blue Peter in the Belmont futurity.

Mr. Busher, younger brother to the California pride, Busher, was the mythical midwest champion of his division, capturing the Arlington futurity and the National Stallion stakes.

Fred W. Hooper's Ocean Drive and Olympia are two more likely candidates, both expected to campaign at Santa Anita's meeting. Ocean Drive won the Prairie State stakes, the Mayflower and the Hialeah juvenile, and Olympia won the Primer, Keeneland Breeders futurity and dead-heated in the Joliet stakes.

American League Players Set 2 New Fielding Records in '48

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 16—American league players set three new major league fielding records and tied five others during the 1948 baseball season.

Cleveland's world champions fielded .982 to lead the circuit, the American league service bureau statistics disclosed. The Indians missed by a single point of tieing the major league mark they established in 1947. In addition the champions also boasted three players who were the best defensively at their respective positions.

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager-shortstop, topped the shortstops with .975, while Ed Robinson, traded by the Indians this week to Washington led the first basemen with a .995 mark. Dale Mitchell captured the top mark for outfielders with .991.

The official averages show that George Stirnweiss of New York was the best fielding second baseman with .993 in 141 games. Hank Majeski of Philadelphia led the third basemen with .975, and Bob Swift of Detroit was the highest ranking catcher with a .991 percentage.

Stirnweiss shattered two major league marks in leading the circuit's second basemen. His .993 percentage erased the old mark of .992 and his five errors in handling 715 chances was a new season low for miscues.

Thirty-six pitchers had perfect fielding records, with Fred Hutchinson of Detroit ranking first on his leading figure of 64 chances.

The St. Louis Browns finished last in team fielding, but first in double plays with 190, seven more than Cleveland accounted for.

Gerald Priddy, St. Louis infielder, was not the slickest infielder in the league, but he took part in 132 double plays, or more than any other infielder with the exception of first basemen.

Four individual fielding records were tied in 1948 and all involved double plays.

Pitcher Hal Newhouser of Detroit started four double plays in a single game. George Vico of Detroit and Ed Robinson tied a mark for first basemen by participating in six double plays each in a single game. Shortstop Vern Stephens of the Boston Red Sox tied a mark at his post by taking part in five doubles plays, while Joe Gordon of Cleveland tied a record for second basemen by twice participating in five double plays in separate games.

Pleasant Outlasts Waldo Rally To Win

Pleasant came up with its first Marion county league victory last night by outlasting a late Waldo rally to win a thriller, 38-37. With 30 seconds to go Waldo tallied to bring them within a point of tieing it up. In those last few minutes of play both teams were awarded a free throw but missed. Waldo forward, Bob Salyer, was the night's high scorer with ten points.

Opens Peace Drive In Pro Grid War

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16 — Alexis Thompson today opened the way for a new peace offensive in professional football.

The millionaire owner of the Philadelphia Eagles disclosed he planned to "feel out" his National league colleagues on their latest reaction to a common draft with the All America conference.

Either that or some other sensible solution" he said "to the fantastic situation that finds me with a championship football team that will lose close to $32,000 in a year."

The NFL and AAC have been at loggerheads for three years and the result has been high salaries for players and money losing franchises.

"I'd like to make some sense and cents out of this muddled pro-football business," Thompson explained.

The Eagle owner is determined to try and make NFL owners see the light at the draft meeting here next Monday.

Just to show how far away everybody is on the problem, here's what NFL Commissioner Bert Bell has to say:

"The National Football league is satisfied with its operation this year in view of the general fading off of the amusement business.

"While we figure to drop about six per cent financially I feel sure that more teams have made money in the past few years than in the period from 1933 to 1943."

PHILADELPHIA EAGLES VOTE PLAYOFF SHARES

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA Dec 16—The Philadelphia Eagles won $151 their share of Sunday's National Football league championship gate into 38 and one-half shares.

The players voted yesterday to give full shares to 34 players and four coaches and a half-share to the equipment manager. No mention was made of Gil Steinke, who joined the club for the last two games of the regular season and the playoff with the Chicago Cardinals at Shibe park.

Pasadena Jaycees Prove To Be Perfect Hosts

By The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 16—Some 124 motorists who parked in a road during the Little Rose Bowl game Saturday got traffic tickets for illegal parking.

The Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the game in which Compton college beat Duluth, Minn., Junior college 48-14, feels that the motorists were "guests" of the chamber.

Proving itself the perfect host, the Chamber said yesterday it would pay all the traffic fines.

Hungary Tells U.S. To "Mind Its Own Business"

By The Associated Press

BUDAPEST, Dec. 16—Hungary has told the U. S. state department to "mind its own business."

The remark was contained in a Hungarian rejection of an American protest against seizure of American-owned oil properties. The note was made public yesterday.

(The U. S. note charged two American employes of a Hungarian subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company (N.J.) were forced by Hungarian police to sign "confessions" that they sabotaged oil production. The state department said the "confessions" were used as an excuse to seize the company's properties.)

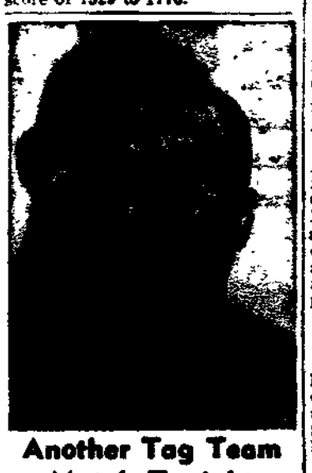
CLAY BIRD SHOOT SET

Plans have been completed for a clay bird shoot Sunday at the Meeker Sportsmen's club one and one-half miles south of Meeker. There will be awards for high marksmanship the officers announce. On Tuesday, Dec. 21 marksmen from Wapakoneta will visit the Meeker range for an indoor rifle shoot. Both the Meeker and Wapakoneta clubs are in the Northwestern league. On Dec. 7 the Meeker club competed with the Upper Sandusky marksmen losing to their opponents by a score of 1329 to 1776.



Another Tag Team Match Tonight

Marion wrestling fans have been going wild over the wild tag team matches at the armory and Promotor Fishbaugh has signed one tonight that should top them all. Ali Albi, the Terrible Turk and Steve Nenoff the Bulgarian will make up the one team while Dutch Schultz and Len Hughes will be the other team. Ali and Steve make one of the most colorful teams ever seen as both have shaved heads and big black mustaches and have wrestled many times together in team matches. The combination of Schultz and Hughes make this a rough match as all four men are capable of the roughest wrestling ever seen. The team match will be the feature attraction of two hours or the best two out of three falls but there will be two thirty minute matches before the feature which will see Nenoff tackling Schultz and Hughes (former masked wrestler) wrestling Ali, the Turk. Dick Nash and Red McKinnis open the show at 8:30 with a ten minute prelim. Prices 50c-75c-$1.00, call 2745 for your best ringside after six-thirty. —Adv.

AKRON, WILBERFORCE REMAIN UNDEFEATED

By The Associated Press

Akron university and Wilberforce State college stayed in the ranks of undefeated basketball teams last night by posting easy victories.

Akron's Zippers made Wayne university their third victim, 71-35, at Akron, while Wilberforce notched its fourth win by trouncing Tiffin at Wilberforce, 72-53.

Bobby Walker scored 19 points and Hank Vaughn hit for 19 to pace Akron, which led 34-20 at halftime. It was Wayne's second loss in seven games.

Ken Levison and Bill Shields scored 14 points apiece to lead Wilberforce. Tiffin now has lost all five of its starts.

In other games Charlie Bush's 19 points paced once-beaten Youngstown, to a 51-40 win over Hiram at Youngstown. Rio Grande lost another road game — 81-76 at Oakland City, Ind.; Muskingum poured it on Sterling (Kansas) at New Concord, 88-25, and Defiance topped Findlay at Defiance, 68-48, as Don Canfield, Stuffy Sumpter and Frank Clark scored 51 points between them for the home club.

Morral, Claridon Set County Pace

No team in the Marion county league has played more than three loop contests but already the handwriting is on the wall.

Morral and Claridon with three victories each lead the list of the power-laden League play has been decidedly lopsided so far. In fact only two other schools remain undefeated, Green Camp and Caledonia. The Duma men have won two and Green Camp took its only contest to date.

Breathing on the necks of the four undefeated squads is Meeker with two triumphs and a loss. The only squad to turn the trick was that stubborn Claridon outfit 50-42. Pleasant and New Blaurington have won one and lost one. Trailing are LaRue and Martel with two losses and Prospect and Waldo with three.

Morral's cage squad owes its present record to two things—speed and height. They have both say opponents that have gone down to their fast and furious type of play. In addition they have three men who have swished 40 or more points in three games: Dick Granlee with 48, Merl Hilborn with 42, and Jim Weston with 40.

Claridon so far has been a lower scoring squad but A. B. Augenstein's men seem to rack up enough to win their battles by comfortable margins. Their high man is Randy Dickason who has chalked up 51 points and is the second highest scorer in the league. The rest of the Claridon scoring is fairly well distributed.

Meeker claims the highest scoring man in the loop—Walt Yost. From his center position he has come through with the amazing total of 65 points. This is averaging better than 20 markers a game which is red hot shooting in any loop.

The situation has changed over Caledonia way. Coach Thurman Wright lacked height but he has it now—enough anyhow. With the return of Gene Fleming who was injured in football the squad has received a shot in the arm. Fleming is six feet three and in his first game against LaRue he hung up 13 points to give the Duma men a 42-36 victory.

REVOLUTIONARY NEW COAL DIGGER SHOWN

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 16—A revolutionary continuous mining machine—designed to dig coal at the rate of two tons a minute—is busily ripping out bituminous in a nearby commercial operation.

The $50,000 machine was developed by the Joy Manufacturing Co. and purchased by the Pittsburgh Coal Co. It was given a public unveiling yesterday in the new Mathies mine, some 15 miles south of Pittsburgh. Seven other machines are in use elsewhere.

The Joy continuous miner substitutes one continuous operation for the usual cutting, drilling, blasting and loading activities. It works like this:

The 34-inch-high, 25½-foot long machine has a ripper bar, or head, at the front which tears coal upward from the working face and discharges it into a conveyer on the machine's back. The coal is carried to a hopper car in the rear and then to shuttle cars. The machine is mounted on caterpiller treads and can turn to the right or left. The ripper bar and the rear conveyor each swing in a 45 degree arc so the machine can mine around a corner.

The Joy continuous miner is the second such machine to be displayed publicly in recent months. Last October, the Sunnyhill Coal Co., of Pittsburgh, gave a demonstration of a continuous miner in a strip operation near Columbus, O. That machine, called the Colmol, operated on a boring principle, instead of a upward ripping motion. Its backers say it can mine more coal in an hour than a normal crew of a dozen or so miners can dig in a day.

Coal Machine Firm Started in Marion

Joy Bros., Inc., credited with producing a new high-speed coal mining machine, originated in Marion in the early 1930's. Here the company maintained engineering and sales departments for its coal mining machinery business. Its product at that time, principally coal saws, was manufactured at the Kelly Foundry and Machine Works at Mt. Gilead.

Daughter of Former Jap Envoy To Visit U.S.

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, Dec. 16—Mrs. Pia Kurusu White, 22-year-old daughter of the Japanese special envoy who was in Washington when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor, will visit relatives in Dayton, O., soon.

She and her husband, former Army Lieutenant Frank K. White, arrived here yesterday aboard an Army transport. They said they will visit his brother, Bernard, at Dayton before making a decision on where to live.

White, a native of Somerset, Pa., and the attractive former Miss Kurusu were married 16 months ago at the American consulate at Yokohama. White has been an industrial engineer since his separation from the Army in January, 1947.

Mrs. White said she was certain her father, Saburo Kurusu, did not know of the plan to bomb Pearl Harbor when he went to Washington.

Of the 208 engagements of the American Revolution, nearly a third of the battles were fought on New York soil.

CAMPAIGN AIMED AT HEART DISEASE

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16—A campaign to raise $100,000 in 52 Ohio counties to fight the No. 1 killer of man—heart disease—will begin Feb. 7 and continue though Feb. 28, Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of Ohio State university, announced today.

Dr. Bevis, chairman of the Central Ohio Heart association, said the $100,000 Ohio drive is part of the American Heart association's national campaign for $5,000,000.

Funds for the campaign, Dr. Bevis said, will go in part for research into the causes of rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease, which cause nearly five times as many deaths among children as polio, whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and meningitis combined. Other funds will go for an expanded education program to make known to the medical profession and the public the latest advances in the detection and treatment of heart diseases.

COLUMBUS FIRM TO REPLACE STRIKERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 16 — The strike-bound American Zinc Oxide Co. plans to replace about 120 members of the CIO Smelter Workers union who refused to heed a back-to-work ultimatum.

Management on Monday announced it would replace any worker not on the job Dec. 15. Company officials said last night only "a few" strikers returned to work.

William T. Maidens, the plant's general superintendent, said the firm would begin hiring new employes immediately. The plant normally employs about 150 production workers. All but approximately 30 continued to strike, which hinges on refusal of the union's international officers to sign non-Communist affidavits.

The company refused to sign a new contract until the officers swear they are not Communists. The previous contract expired in July, and the strike was called Aug. 13. Wages are not an issue.

The Columbus CIO council stepped into the dispute last night by attacking the company for employing "strike-breaking tactics." The council also said the company put forth the Communist issue "falsely and maliciously."

Army Junta Takes Over in Guatemala

By The Associated Press

GUATEMALA, Dec. 16 — A junta of five young men has taken over El Salvador's government in the fifth successful army uprising in Latin America of 1948.

"Absolute calm reigns in all the country and the people applaud the action of the Army," said a bulletin broadcast from San Salvador, the capital of the little republic.

Barkley Predicts Price Control Law

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—Vice President-elect Alben W. Barkley predicted last night that the next congress will enact price controls but would not increase general taxes.

He also forecast that the administration would push for early repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, passage of a 75-cent minimum wage law and extension of social security benefits.

Mr. Barkley spoke at a Town Hall dinner at which he received an award for distinguished service.

SAY SOMOZA BACKING COSTA RICA INVASION

By The Associated Press

SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA, Dec. 16—Two prisoners seized at La Cruz say Gen. Anastasio Somoza, Nicaraguan strong man, is reported to have pledged full support for the current invasion of Costa Rica.

The organizer, they say, is Dr. Rafael Calderon Guardia, former president of Costa Rica, whom a military junta has prevented from resuming the presidency.

The Bold commanders, they say, are a Nicaraguan and a Honduran.

Army staff officers questioned the prisoners, in the presence of reporters, at the San Jose jail last night. They identified themselves as Pedro Jose Ordonez and Florencio Ordonez, brothers.

NEW LADDER TRUCK ARRIVES HERE TODAY

Fire Department To Take Delivery Tomorrow.

Marion's new $27,000 aerial ladder fire truck arrived here early today by Erie freight train from the Elmira, N. Y., factory of the American-La France-Foamite Corp.

A. O. Uncapher, safety-service director, who talked today by phone with American-La France officials at Elmira, said a fire truck engineer from Pittsburgh was due to arrive in Marion late today to arrange unloading and official delivery of the truck to city fire department. The truck probably will be unloaded and accepted by city officials tomorrow, Mr. Uncapher said.

The new 85-foot aerial ladder truck, painted Marion fire department's distinctive two tone gray, will replace old "Aerial No. 1," a rickety veteran of over 22 years service, now patiently awaiting retirement at Central fire station. One of the first motorized ladder "wagons" in this section of Ohio, "Old No. 1" answered every fire call for over 23 years. Wear and tear and the passage of time have made its wooden ladders and slow speed operation inadequate to serve Marion's present needs, officials say.

African palm oil, used in processing steel plates, costs about five times what it did before World War II.

U.S. DEFENDS TOJO TRIALS

Pleads with Supreme Court Not To "Tamper" with International Tribunal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 16 – The United States government pleaded with the supreme court today not to "tamper" with the international tribunal which doomed former Premier Tojo and six other Japanese war lords to death.

A brief filed in advance of today's historic war crimes arguments cited the government's "deep concern lest irreparable damage be done" if the American court "arrogates" to itself power to review the Tokyo tribunal's actions.

Would Hurt UN Activities

Solicitor General Philip B Perlman said any such move not only would be a blow to peaceful and judicial settlements of international disputes and "the continued growth of world law" but

"Other cooperative endeavors . . . such as United Nations activities, also will suffer."

In fact, Perlman insisted, "most unhappy consequences can be anticipated in the development of international affairs."

The government sent Perlman back to the court today (1:30 p m EST) to bolster with oral arguments the views he outlined in his brief Specifically it asks the high court to reject the appeals filed by American attorneys for two of the condemned Japanese as well as five others who got prison sentences last November 12

From Tokyo came George A Furness of Boston, John C Brannon of Kansas City and American-born George Yamaoka of New York to press their appeals

Mansfield Court Clerk Collects—at Funeral

By The United Press

MANSFIELD, O., Dec. 16—Municipal court clerk Paul Ritchie revealed today he attended a funeral earlier this week, but not as a mourner.

For six months Ritchie has been looking for a man who skipped town without paying an $11 30 fine for intoxication. When he read in an obituary notice that the fugitive planned to attend a relative's funeral here, Ritchie joined the procession to the cemetery and picked up his quarry after the burial service was completed.

C. & O. Main Line Blocked in Accident

By The Associated Press

ASHLAND, Ky., Dec 16—Two Chesapeake & Ohio railway locomotives sideswiped at suburban Cliffside early today, derailing five freight cars and blocking traffic on the main line

Sgt. Sam Berry of the Ashland police department, said the collision occurred on a "cross-over," and three of the cars were badly "chopped up."

COLUMBUS DRIVER FINED

Gerald K. Heck of Columbus was fined $100 and costs and his driver's license was suspended for three years in municipal court this morning for driving under the influence of alcohol. He was arrested by the highway patrol at 5:10 a. m. today on route 30-S east of Marion.

WEATHER

evacuated at Rutland and Thomas Fork.

Nation Hit by Weird Hodge-Podge of Weather

The nation was hit today by a weird hodge-podge of weather that included both springlike and sub-zero temperatures rain fog sleet, snow, and a miserable mixture the weather bureau described as "graupel"

The graupel, a combination of snow pellets sleet and frozen rain, covered New York City with 2¼ inches of yellow slush Pavements were slick and air travel was stopped

St Louis and Indianapolis yesterday enjoyed the hottest temperatures on record for Dec 15 But Los Angeles, which usually boasts of its mild winter weather, shivered at 39 degrees That was the lowest temperature of the year and only three degrees above the record low for that date

Western New England was blanketed by three to five inches of snow Scattered flurries also fell in Oregon and Washington

The foul weather in the east forced UN Secretary General Trygve Lie, returning from Paris to land at Boston instead of New York

Rising winds early today began dispelling a heavy fog which lay across the midwest from the Canadian border to the Ohio river and from Iowa east to Ohio

The fog made driving dangerous in many sections last night and halted traffic at scores of airfields.

A glaze storm in the Great Lakes area halted almost all highway traffic, closed down the Minneapolis airfield, and slashed along distance lines to 27 towns in western Michigan.

DRILLER

friend. The well came in at 2,200 feet, an artesian water well producing 40,000 barrels of good water a day which boiled two feet high over the top of the hole in a 10-inch stream at a temperature of 170 degrees. He continued drilling and sank paying wells at Bakersfield, Signal Hill, Long Beach, and in the San Pedro valley in California.

Mr. Dibble finished his delayed vacation, returned east in March 1935, to work a while in the oil fields in Stark county, Ohio, then went back west to Paulding, Arizona to drill in a well for an Ohio syndicate.

Big Operations in Michigan

On July 3, 1935 he began as boss driller in a Michigan oil and gas field. This field developed to such size he was boss driller over seven drilling rigs. During the six years he worked in the Michigan fields he brought in 118 producing wells. In 1941 he then came to Marseilles in Wyandot county, where he sank a "wildcat" well to 6,200 feet, drilling the entire job without another driller on the rig. Much of this drilling was through the toughest kind of granite, he added.

In 1943 he began drilling water wells and with the exception of a period of wildcat oil drilling in 1945 in Tocsin, Indiana, 10 miles out of Decatur, he stuck to water, well work exclusively until returning to oil and gas drilling on his present "set" in Marion county.

Progress on Norris Farm

The Norris farm well is now 500 feet deep and the drilling bit is driving its way steadily through the tough Niagara limestone. By next Tuesday Mr. Dibble expects to reach the Newburgh gas bearing sands 150 feet further down.

"When we reach the Newburgh sand then we'll see whether we'll have a gas well or an oil well," Mr Dibble said

He lives with his wife three daughters and a son at the Kenton city limits on the Kenton-Forest road and commutes to the drilling site each day

Mr Dibble has three grown daughters, all married, and a son in the regular air forces in Germany The apple of his eye is his youngest son, at home, who is only nine months old

Although he well remembers the rough tough times of the oil boom days of the West where it was no surprise to rise from his tent and find a dead man lying behind it most any morning, and men who did their work and asked no questions lived the longest, Mr Dibble says he's done traveling This time, he says, he's settled down for keeps.

When his tool dresser bears this be cracked. "It's tough to teach an old dog new tricks, Bruce"

"Yes but a rolling stone not only gathers no moss it often gets the corners knocked off," Dibble replied

Despite his firm resolve to stay put, two will get you five that Bruce Dibble who at 57 is still a young man may see the sun come up over a drill rig in many a spot far from Hardin county, Ohio before he goes to the land where good drillers go. Where is that? Just ask Bruce

A fast-swimming penguin can leap three or four feet up out of the water to land on an ice-floe or rock

OHIO GRANGE TAKES UP MANY MATTERS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec 16—Resolutions concerning such matters as farm parity, voting machines and property damage occupied the Ohio state grange today as final convention sessions opened

Adoption of resolutions and election of additional officers were the final business items to be disposed of at the group's annual meeting

Joseph W Fichter of Oxford yesterday was re-elected to his fourth consecutive term as state master The office also had been sought by Chester B Aspach of Canal Winchester and John Kelser of Medina

Delos Wiley of Lebanon was elected overseer to replace Kelser and Ross K Lawrence of Coshocton was named lecturer to succeed C C Converse of Stark county.

Buried by Red Tape

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — What an opportunity Happy Giovanni! He could go on placidly paying out administration after administration until some scared official agreed to bring him back to life and grant him a pension the rest of his days.

The poor people would build him a monument, patterned after Hercules slaying the nine-headed Hydra, and crown it forever with flowers.

But what does Giovanni do? He merely keeps on paying taxes. So far has Sicily, home of the Vengeance Vendetta, fallen from its golden days.

TWO CALIFORNIA airport employes have been forced down in their third attempt to break the 1939 endurance record of 726 hours aloft.

They stayed up 566 hours, 47 minutes in their latest effort and flew some 51,000 miles.

Some men will do anything to find an airtight excuse for staying out nights.

A LONDON newspaper says that eight of every 10 horses sold in Britain today ends up on a steak platter in a black market restaurant.

The paper dolefully observes that some of the island's finest draft breeds may be eaten out of existence.

There is an old prejudice in America against consuming man's second best friend. But in Europe, particularly France, horseflesh is esteemed by many as a delicacy. It is rich and flavorful. Doctors often prescribe it for victims of anemia.

But here, except in cases where shady operators sometimes blend faithful Dobbin into beef hamburger, wornout horses usually wind up on a zoo bill of fare or in canned dog food.

One man once found a double military use for the horse, employing him as both mount and menu. The cavalry troops of Genghis Khan, 13th century Asiatic conquerer, customarily on long marches opened the veins of their ponies and drank their blood when food supplies were short.

It's a good argument for "C" rations.

Hal Boyle

Port Giovanni at 55 is a classic example of how a man can actually be straitjacketed by the red tape of government. Through some muddling he was legally declared dead in 1944 in a small village he never had visited.

For four years Giovanni has waged a one-man campaign to convince the government it was wrong. But red tape is hard to reverse, in sunny Sicily as elsewhere.

With a fine consistency, the government not only has refused to concede Giovanni's existence, it has also declined to register his daughter, born recently, on the medically justifiable grounds that "dead man can't father children."

The only consolation Giovanni has is that the tax collector has graciously consented to let him continue to pay his tax bills.

But it would seem the "ghost man of Palermo" is overlooking a sure bet to become one of mankind's lasting heroes. Instead of continuing servilely to pay taxes to support an administration that lists him as dead, Giovanni should strike an historic blow against all government nonsense.

Why couldn't Giovanni go to the Palermo city hall some morning with a machine gun and destroy the whole crew? He couldn't very well be punished, as a man legally dead and held incapable of fatherhood could hardly be charged with murder.

FORMS SOCIETY TO AID OTHERS

Omaha Policeman Launches Organization To Help the Handicapped.

By International News Service

OMAHA, Neb.—An Omaha policeman has launched an organization "Friends of the Handicapped" which he hopes will provide artificial limbs, wheelchairs, seeing-eye dogs and also employment for handicapped persons.

Edgar C. Holmgrain says his organization is designed to help those who are unable to buy appliances. It also would find employment for those who could work at least part-time by operating small magazine subscription agencies and by addressing mail.

Holmgrain said

"Society Is Cruel"

"Society is cruel—not deliberately, but complacently—by the attitude it assumes toward the problems and rehabilitation of handicapped people."

Here is how he explains his philanthropy

"In my work as a police officer, I contact a great many different persons each day. But a lump forms in my throat every time I see some fellow-human being struggling along the street with a deformed leg or tapping along with a white cane, or wearing a hook on the end of his arm.

"I make it my business to walk alongside them and try to draw them into conversation. In this way, I have made many friends of these handicapped people—and I am the richer for it. Never has one of them complained because he is disabled. They do not seem to resent that God has seen fit to impose upon them a handicap which makes their road through life more difficult.

Thirty-Five Years Old

"One of these friends of mine is a man of thirty-five years. I met him on my beat one evening and he was jubilant because he made two dollars that day, selling razor blades. Incidentally, it was 95 degrees that day. He told me he was going to buy a small, used coin-changer so he could make change more rapidly with his one arm.

"Jobs, these days, are had for the asking—but not by the handicapped. This man told me he applied for work at many firms and answered many want ads but it was always the same old story—fill out an application and wait forever. The man said he applied to the State Rehabilitation Bureau for an artificial arm and hand, but was told no funds were available.

Another friend who lost both legs as a result of diabetes infection, used to wheel himself each day to a tire shop where he repaired tires and tubes for a living. The state also told him it had no funds to buy him artificial legs and local charities said the same.

Fortunately for him, his case was called to the attention of a newspaper reporter who wrote about him and a businessman soon presented money for the limbs. Now my friend walks along the streets with his head high, no longer the recipient of sympathetic stares from an unthinking public. He has stepped back into the world, has a good job and is independent again."

Officer Holmgrain hopes to enlist the membership of ten thousand "Friends of the Handicapped" and eventually to obtain a radio program through which the wants of such persons may be aired and employment solicited.

EXTRA $1,000. Patti Luer, already recipient of a $1,000 scholarship as one of 15 finalists in the "Miss America" contest at Atlantic City, N. J., this year, will receive an extra $1,000 scholarship to develop her exceptional operatic voice, discovered when she sang in contest preliminaries. The scholarship was awarded to the 19-year-old Montana State college junior, says contest officials, after consultation with Metropolitan Opera voice experts.

Sisters Grow Old While Fishing, Writing Poetry

By The United Press

MONTEZUMA, Ga.—Most women in their eighties would sit down and let the world pass them by.

Two Montezuma women, aged 81 and 84, sit down. But the world doesn't pass them by although an occasional fish might.

Charlotte Broyles Blaylock, the "youngster," and Nealie (Mrs. T. W.) Brown, are the fisherwomen. And they mix poetry with it.

The two women visit together often, sing and play the piano and exchange clothes patterns. Just for the thrill of it, they drum up some hectic domino duels. But when it comes to recreation, they just bait up the old hook and take off to the nearest fishing hole.

Mrs. Brown has a lily-covered pond. Sometimes they fish there. On other occasions they trek to Chickamauga Lake. Occasionally, they even get down to Florida, fishing in inland waters or in the gulf.

When they're farther south, it's high-falutin' tackle for the matriarch. But in Georgia, it's plain worm, wasp-gru and minnow.

The sisters grew up in the mountain country. Mrs. Blaylock was born of a father who took hunting as his hobby. She shadowed him, acquiring the habit then.

"I guess I'll never outgrow it," she says.

And every now and then the sisters come up with some good-sized catches. Mrs. Blaylock hooked a 14-pound grouper and 15-pound garfish in Florida. Mrs. Brown landed a six-pound redfish.

The "children" are getting used to coming home and reading poetic little notes like this: "With hooks and lines and can of bait. Now don't wait supper, we may be late. Off we go in pretty weather, down the hill to the pool together."

JUVENILE VANDALISM

By International News Service

OMAHA, Neb.—Vandals have forced closing of the Vinton School Recreation Center in South Omaha Park Superintendent Ralph McClintock said they broke down a door and looted the basement playground and handicraft equipment. He explained that a woman attendant was "unable to handle" the youths who frequented the center.

About 11 per cent of the deaths by fire each year are children from five to 14 years old.

DIVORCE RATE CUT SOUGHT IN CHICAGO

By The United Press

EVANSTON, Ill.—A new plan to cut down the divorce rate has been proposed by a Chicago judge.

In some respects the plan of Judge Julius H. Miner is similar to labor legislation. It requires a 60-day "cooling off" period.

The plan was published in the law review of the Northwestern University law school.

It provides for the filing of a confidential "statement of intention" to institute a suit similar to strike notices required from labor unions.

The statement would contain allegations or grounds for divorce and would be on the record 10 days prior to the actual filing of a divorce suit.

Under the Miner plan, impartial services of the court would be made available free of charge during the 60-day waiting period to the husband and wife on a voluntary and confidential basis.

Such assistance from the court for the purpose of effecting reconciliation, would include medical, psychiatric and psychological services.

The plan would not restrict but merely defer the filing of divorce actions to permit the active participation of the third party in every divorce, an opportunity to safeguard the rights in the solidarity of the home.

MONASTERY IS BEING REBUILT

Monks Working on Famed Structure Destroyed by U.S. Planes.

By The United Press

CASSINO, ITALY—Stone by gray granite stone, the tireless monks atop Montecassino are rebuilding for the fourth time the most famous monastery in Christendom.

It was destroyed through what the monks insist was a "ghastly mistake" of American airmen in World War II.

The excuse given for the bombing of our monastery was that the Germans were using it for an artillery observation post," explained the quiet monks. There were no Germans at the monastery. The nearest German was a single soldier who lived in a cave down the hill from the southeast corner.

"But in the bombardment more than 500 innocent civilian refugees were killed. We dragged 300 bodies from the rubble of that corner alone." They pointed to a cleared area which had once been a convent, but which now resembled a market place.

Funds Run Out

"If we had funds we could rebuild the monastery in eight or nine years," the monks said. "But now the work has almost stopped. We have no more funds. By working sporadically as we must it may take 15 years or more. But," they shrug their patient shoulders, "it has been rebuilt three times before. We can do it again."

The Lombards wrecked the monastery in 520. 51 years after St. Benedict founded it. In 642 the Saracens captured and sacked it. In 1343 an earthquake all but leveled it. On Feb. 15, 1944 American bombers wrecked it more completely than ever before.

The monastery and the village of Cassino on the side of the mountain below it were of vital importance for the allied armies smashing their way up Italy from the south. The two ruins guarded the entrance to the Liri River valley, a natural avenue as a 75-mile-an-hour highway to Rome and the north. The Germans defended the city and the mountain tenaciously and the Allies hammered them unmercifully.

1,000-Plane Attack

In mid-February the Allies sent a thousand bombers against Cassino and the monastery on the hilltop, in the greatest air raid ever launched against so small a target.

Military men are still arguing about that operation and the Italian government has made a national shrine out of the spare stone and ruins of Cassino. A new Cassino has been built in the valley below the old town but an occasional mine, bomb or shell still explodes among the ruins of the old town.

There are 25 Benedictine monks at the monastery now and they supervise about 100 workmen employed by the Italian government, which has contributed 300,000,000 lire thus far, of which 50,000,000 lire were spent just to clear away the rubble which lay to a depth of 15 feet as the bombardment.

Little From U. S.

"We have received nothing from the United States except for about $6,000 collected by Benedictine monasteries there," explained the monks. "We have received nothing from the Vatican, nothing from other countries. We always hope for collections."

MEAT PRICE DECLINE REPORTED IN U.S.

By The United Press

Retail meat prices have fallen from 12 to 17 per cent since the high points of late summer and early fall, surveys by the National Association of Retail Grocers and the American Meat Institute showed today.

The grocers report issued at Chicago said that independent retailers have cut prices 17 per cent as wholesale costs declined. A spokesman said the decline has not been great because retail meat stores have many expenses other than meat costs.

The survey showed that good grade round steak dropped from an average of $1.06 a pound July 23 and 88 cents Dec. 10. Rib roast fell from 84 to 76 cents during this period.

A spokesman of the AMI's department of marketing at San Francisco predicted an increase in meat production next year, most of it during the last quarter of 1949 and in 1950. He said retail meat prices declined 12 per cent since early fall.

Meanwhile, a large food chain announced an eight to 10 per cent cut in the price of steaks and beef roasts. A company official said the cut would apply in more than 400 of the chain's stores in Chicago, Milwaukee and Indianapolis.

Police and Fire Reports Compiled

E. O. Uncapher, city safety-service director, today reported the summary of police and fire department activity for the month of November.

City Police Chief Marks reported his department answered 436 calls during the month and made 208 arrests. Persons held in city prison were fed 91 meals. Three cars with a total value of $1,800 were stolen here during November. All three were recovered by city police. Of 14 bicycles stolen with a total value of $457 nine valued at $287 were recovered. A total of $870.77 worth of other stolen property was recovered.

Fire Chief Sifritt reported city firemen answered 32 fire calls during November this year as compared with 37 calls during the same month in 1947. Fire losses rose this year to $2,340 as compared with $1,424.82 reported for the same month last year, the chief's report concluded.

Intestinal Tuberculosis Cure.

FROM the medical point of view we are truly living in a wonderful age Take, for example, the new drugs we now have available—the antibiotics, such as streptomycin It has been found that streptomycin is helpful in the treatment of certain cases of tuberculosis of the lungs Recently, it has been tried in patients with tuberculosis of the intestines with hopeful results.

With the passing of time, it has been noted that this drug, when given by injection into a muscle, is in part eliminated through the intestine. The drug may be administered by mouth in cases of bowel tuberculosis, because the drug is not affected by the stomach secretion, nor is it absorbed to any great extent from the bowel, so that it can act on germs in the bowel The treatment also may be carried out by giving the streptomycin in the form of an injection into the lower intestine.

Dr N Markoff, of Switzerland, has treated patients with tuberculosis of the bowel by an enema of the streptomycin solution. The proper amount of streptomycin is dissolved in about a pint of salt solution. The injections were given daily for from 14 to 15 days All of the patients also received injections of the streptomycin into a muscle Just which type of treatment should be used in any case of intestinal tuberculosis depends upon the part of the bowel affected

Two effects of the treatment were noted in the intestinal tuberculosis. First, there is improvement in the general condition, a decrease in fever, and better appetite. Secondly, there is an effect on the ulcers in the bowel, which are produced by the tuberculous infection. These ulcers seem to heal and the symptoms due to the ulcers disappear Blocking of the bowel due to the irritation produced by the ulcers, and diarrhea, which is often present, also clear up, and the patient often regains normal bowel habits

The treatment causes no reactions or noticeable after-effects. After a few days of treatment, the patients, as a rule, showed striking improvement in their symptoms, and, if their condition improves, this improvement lasts for over a period of six months.

Unfortunately, the treatment has not produced a complete cure in any case. On the other hand, the benefits obtained in relieving symptoms seem to be greater than those produced by any other form of treatment. Hence, in tuberculous bowel infections this treatment with streptomycin is well worth while employing.

Of course, the physician will decide in each instance when the streptomycin should be employed, and in what form it should be administered and over how long a period.

Christmas Theme Carried Out In Shovel Co. Paper

A Christmas theme, with pictures and articles telling of holiday activities taking place among company employes, is carried out in the current edition of "The Marion Scoop," a paper published by and for employes of the Marion Power Shovel Co. plant. It is the paper's third Christmas edition.

Centering the front page is a picture depicting the company's idea of a Yuletide dream which happily might be occupying some of the sleeping hours of a young son of a Marion family. In the photograph is presented a young man's Christmas wish, interpreted in a dream in which Santa Claus appears with the gift the youngster desires most, a toy miniature of a Marion Power Shovel.

The Santa Claus is portrayed in the picture by John M Demarest, vice president and works manager of the Marion Power Shovel Co, while the sleeping boy is Fred Edward Ruhl, five-year-old son of Mr and Mrs Henry S Ruhl of the Veterans Housing Unit. Mr. Ruhl is supervisor of blue print control and president of the Marion Power Shovel bowling league. The picture of the shovel appearing in the lad's dream is a photographic reproduction of the model 111-M shovel which is located in the reception office of the company.

Among holiday activities will be a Christmas party to be attended by an estimated 1,600 Marion children, to be held Thursday morning, Dec. 23, at 9:30 at the Palace theater under the sponsorship of the U. S. W. of A. Local No. 1949 of the Marion Power Shovel Co. The party is for all children 14 years of age or younger whose parent works at the plant. The youngsters will see a motion picture and will receive treats. Howard Rizer is president of Local 1949

An annual Christmas party will be held by the women of the Marion Power Shovel Co. Friday at Hotel Harding.

Decorating the lawn at the plant, facing West Center street and adjacent to the company's main office entrance, is a large tree which was erected recently.

Seabees and Auxiliary Meet at Hotel Marion

At the auxiliary meeting, a constitution and by-laws, presented by Mrs. Valeria Haughn was approved to be sent to the state organization. It was announced that at January meeting of both groups, officers will be elected. A membership drive is being conducted by the men's organization preceding the election. Jessie Buckley Class Holds Christmas Party

A dinner at 6:30 o'clock preceded a Christmas party held by the Jessie Buckley class of Central Christian church Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ernest Elliott conducted the devotions and the dinner was in charge of the class officers.

During a short business session the class voted a gift for a shut-in and a $5 to a ministerial student. Plans also were made to sew a layette for a less fortunate family.

Mrs. W. C. Tucker was appointed reporter to succeed Mrs. E. J. Hollenbeck who will leave soon to make her home in Galion. Mrs. Hollenbeck, who also served as assistant teacher of the class, was presented a gift from the class by Mrs. Tucker.

In the social room where a gift exchange was held, the decorations included a large lighted Christmas tree. Mrs. E. L. Weimer was in charge of the worship period and the group sang Christmas carols. Mrs. Forest Flockencier reviewed "The Sad Shepherd," by Van Dyke. Mrs. Gertrude Bush was a guest.

WESTMINSTER GUILD MEETS

Devotions at a meeting of the Westminster Guild of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church Tuesday night were on a Christmas theme, a candlelight installation of officers was held, and a gift exchange was conducted. Mrs. Eugene White was hostess for the meeting in her home on North Seffner avenue and Mrs. Gerald Peterson was associate hostess. Mrs. Sue Roberts led the devotions, and Miss Elaine Smith presided for the installation. Secret sisters were revealed. Mrs. Robert Griffith was a guest. The next meeting will be held in the home of Miss Virginia O'Dowd on Spencer street.

The French people contributed $250,000 to pay for the Statue of Liberty in 1884 and Americans raised $280,000 for the pedestal.

Fragrant Yule Loaves

CHRISTMAS BREAD LOAF . . . Twist it into shape.

SWEDISH BRAID . . . Top it with icing, cherry garnish.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

There's nothing more satisfying for holiday feasting than a special loaf of yeast bread, fragrant with spices, sweet with frosting, and fresh from your own oven. If you've never tried your hand at one of these loaves before, why not have a pre-Christmas rehearsal? Your family won't mind one bit! Then when you make the bread for Christmas itself you can add extra festive decorations.

The Christmas season is formally ushered in in Sweden by "Lucia Brides," and the youngsters in your family will get a thrill out of being introduced to this holiday tradition of another country. Here is Anna Olssen Coombs' delightful description of the custom in her fine "Modern Swedish Cookbook," published by A. A. Wynn, New York ($2.50).

"This custom originated during pagan times, when this festival was a celebration to greet the returning of the sun. The Swedish winters are long and cold and dark and people have always cherished this occasion to plunge into a veritable abundance of light in the way of torches, bonfires and candles, which in our times have given way somewhat to the Christmas tree. As you probably already know, each day in the Swedish calendar has a name, and Lucia's day happens to come (or it may have been prearranged) on December 13. Well do I remember those frosty, clear, starlit mornings, when we rushed to make coffee and set bountiful trays with fresh saffron buns, drape ourselves in long white nightgowns, and crown our heads with wreaths of pine bows and as many candles as we dared to carry. Then, with the candles burning we proceeded to dispense our bounty, first to our parents and then to our neighbors and friends, singing Christmas carols and thus, in a solemn and somewhat awed spirit, inaugurating the holiday season . . . The Lucia Tray, with its buns, stars and Santa Clauses, still, over the flight of years, wafts a spicy fragrance of almonds, raisins, and cardamom seeds."

Although the following recipe does not come from Mrs. Coombs' cookbook, it has the same food feasting qualities she conjures up.

Swedish Christmas Braid

Ingredients: 1 package granulated yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 1 cup scalded milk, 3¾ cups sifted flour, ¼ cup melted vitaminized margarine, 1/3 cup sugar, 1 egg (well beaten), ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon almond extract, ⅛ teaspoon crushed cardamom seeds, 1 egg yolk (slightly beaten), 1½ teaspoons water, confectioners sugar icing, candied cherries, slivered toasted almonds.

Method: Dissolve yeast in ¼ cup lukewarm water. Stir in ¼ cup of the scalded milk which has been allowed to cool until lukewarm. Add ½ cup flour, beat thoroughly, cover and let rise. When light, add remaining milk and 2 cups flour. Stir until well mixed, cover, and again let rise; add margarine, sugar, well beaten egg, salt, almond, crushed cardamom seeds, and remaining cups flour. Turn onto floured board and knead, using extra flour, cover and let rise. Divide dough into three equal parts and roll long strands of dough pieces of uniform size. Place on baking sheet greased with melted margarine. Let braid. Cover and let rise. Bake in moderate 350 degrees F. oven for 30 minutes. While still warm frost with icing made by adding confectioners sugar to 1 tablespoon water to make rather stiff mixture. Garnish with candied cherries and slivered toasted almonds. Makes 10 to 12 servings. The bread will stay fresh several days if covered closely. It can be easily freshened by heating for a brief time in a warm oven.

PARTIES AT PROSPECT

Christmas parties for various Sunday school classes of St. Paul Lutheran church at Prospect will be held Saturday afternoon. The beginners will meet at the parsonage, Class 1 at the home of Mrs. Claire Keller, Class 2, at the James Lauer home, and Class 3 at the William Emery home. At the Sunday school session Sunday, the nominating committee will present a report. Special Christmas carols will be sung at the worship service Sunday. Rehearsal for a program Christmas eve will be held Sunday afternoon.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The suggestion of a realistic expense account for Mr Truman is an interesting post-election note It now appears he beat Dewey on straight salary

Currently the President gets $75,000 a year three cheeses from Wisconsin and 9 pounds of butter from Missouri He has to provide his own eggs

This year he also won an election, three turkeys, a box of cigars and is now waiting to hear from Stop the Music

But there is some question whether the turkeys are capital gain, personal income or just subject to gift tax

For Christmas dinner the Trumans will have a choice of a tom or a hen turkey and there is reason to believe that the President never tires of finishing off Toms.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

The Missus "Ducks" Out

Slim Hartman took his missus duck hunting the other day. And after five hours of sitting in a swamp, she'd had enough! Going home, Slim reminded her good-naturedly of the time she'd taken him to a woman novelist's lectures, and insisted that he sit it out.

So now the missus and Slim have an understanding. No more duck hunting for her—no more lectures for him. They decided each to his own taste.

It's because they can agree to disagree like that, I think, that Slim and the missus get on so well—content to stay home nights together, enjoying one another's company over a glass of beer and a game of chess.

From where I sit, we can't all enjoy the same things—but we can share those little pleasures that we do enjoy—a glass of beer, a game of chess, some music on the radio—and live-and-let-live when it comes to the others.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I wondered what was behind his request for information. With no thought of friendship or Mr. K— in my mind, I answered: "Well, he said, 'It just came to me that it's as glamorous a job as you make out, and old K— has taken for her, it might be a good idea for somebody to see, a watch on the F.B.I. lad, and see that he doesn't fall too hard.' He knows a lot of inside stuff, I guess. He's always trying to make my flesh crawl, you know."

And as if I were merely asking for information, with no thought of friendship or concern, I added: "Why do you suppose Rod—?"

"I am very sure Mr. K— won't betray any secret with which he has been trusted," I said firmly.

"That's what I think, Junior," said K— is strictly all right. But, Mama, are you as sure of Carlotta Carroll?"

"I haven't made up my mind wholly yet," I told him truthfully. But I was so favorably impressed with her that I shall be extremely disappointed if she does prove unworthy."

That's enough for me, Junior said loyally, and with such potent balm built in my intuitions that I started uneasily.

Then, with an inconsistency for which I flayed myself, I found myself resenting Roderick's next question. He has been a "doubting Thomas" since his babyhood and I found an old annoyance rising as he spoke.

"But, haven't you always told us, Auntie Madge, that we should think things out for ourselves?" Dicky's nephew asked.

"Yes, indeed," I told him, trying to have my voice sound sincere, but afraid that I was far from making a success of the effort.

"Well, then," he said, and I wondered if I imagined that there was a sort of flourish to his words, "I've got different ideas. I'm probably wrong, but for my money this Carlotta Carroll is a sort of super Mata Hari, and old K's fallen for her. How much he's spilled, of course nobody can tell yet, but I think he ought to be watched."

No turkey gobbler had anything on Junior, I told myself as I watched his face redden.

"My, my!" he mocked. "A super-sleuth in our midst! Glad to know you Mr. Sherlock. And, I suppose you'd like to apply for the job of watching the beauteous Carlotta, and the feeble-minded 'K.'"

I laughed with apparent hilarity, for I wanted no continuation of this conversation.

"I'll tell your grandfather to put you both on the job," I said, then switched the conversation before either lad could make a rejoinder.

"Just now, I have something I must talk over with your father," I said. "Will you two boys collect Faith, propose some sort of a game, and keep Faith away from her father while I talk with him?"

U. S. WRITING MORE INTERNATIONAL LAW

By The United Press

WASHINGTON—For the first time in history the U. S. government is writing more international "law" than domestic law.

State department officials disclosed that international treaties and agreements with various countries will take up about 4,500 pages in the next edition of the official U. S. compendium of new "laws."

Domestic laws enacted by Congress this year take up only about 1,100 pages. That's about par for an average peace-time session.

When Congress first began passing legislation back in 1789, it gave the job of publishing its laws and international agreements to the secretary of state. At first he was required only to publish domestic laws in three newspapers.

Huge Volumes Now

Now, he puts them out in huge volumes called "Statutes at Large" which line the book shelves of lawyers' offices.

Twenty years ago the pages of domestic law turned out each year outnumbered the pages of international agreements four to one. This year, it's just the reverse.

"The tail is now wagging the dog," one official said. But he added that it's a good sign, a sign that this country now is assuming more responsibility as a world power.

The major reason for the increase is that the chaotic post-war period required many new treaties and international agreements. For example, the edition this year will include several lengthy peace treaties with former enemy nations.

Also there is the big tariff-cutting agreement which the United States and 21 other nations signed at Geneva last fall. That alone will take up about 2,000 pages.

UN Adds to Volume

The creation of the United Nations also added to business on the international front.

Still another reason for the boom in the publishing of international agreements is that the State Department now is publishing everything, including such things as an agreement setting up an "educational foundation in Burma." In the past it sometimes considered such agreements too insignificant to publish.

But now it's taking no chances. It doesn't want to be accused of keeping any of its hundreds of agreements secret.

U. S. business for the first 50 years, including domestic laws and international agreements, has been jammed with a few volumes. But it will take six new volumes to chronicle this year's business.

"X" Cattle Disease Tackled by U. S.

By The United Press

WASHINGTON — The government soon will send a team of scientists to identify and conquer a new cattle disease, now known only as "disease X."

The Agriculture Department said outbreaks of this "new and baffling malady" already have caused "serious losses . . . of meat, milk and other animal products."

So far, it said, the new cattle-killing disease has been reported in 26 states.

"All attempts to transmit the disease experimentally have been unsuccessful and numerous drug treatments on infected animals have been futile," the department said.

The team of scientists, working closely with state and local governments, will begin its all-out study of the disease within a few weeks.

One department official said about all that is known of the disease at present are the general symptoms. Those include a watery discharge from the eyes and nose of the infected animal, loss of appetite and a thickening of the skin.

The official said the disease appears to have a normal course of between three weeks to three months and seems to be more prevalent among young animals than older stock.

What Is China?

ASIDE from the current crisis, which merely dramatizes the condition, is the fact that China has been for many years less a nation than a territory. Americans trying to help the Chinese have been under the handicap of Chinese disunity. A country without unity of purpose cannot be helped.

Those who are presently insisting that large new grants be authorized for Chinese aid through the government of Chiang Kai-shek have refused to consider evidence that the generalissimo's government is incapable of distributing U.S. food and material. But if it were to fall, as now seems likely, they would have to take a new tack.

There is no argument against helping the Chinese to preserve the right of self-determination. That is an obligation of the United Nations. It is an obligation of the United States. The question never has been whether or not to help the Chinese; it has been only how to help them. And the question now is further complicated by evidence that the Chinese may be getting ready to reconcile their internal differences by negotiating a peace among themselves—a solution first proposed by Gen. Marshall and rejected by the Nationalists.

Latin American Gun Rule

AT THIS distance from Latin American politics no one can hope to understand the issues which are being argued. But the military coup in El Salvador, like the alleged violation of Costa Rica's sovereignty by "invaders" a few days ago, is in the traditional pattern of gun rule.

That pattern has been developed by generations of practice. The political faction with the greater military favor gets into power and tries to stay there, with military support. The opposing faction thereupon weans away military support until it can make a bid for power with weapons.

Politics and militarism thus are wedded; the armed forces always hold the balance of power, as they still do in the old world. Theoretically, the new world has a better system. But the system works only when military influence is kept under tight control by civilian authority.

Safety Secret

COMPANIES operating scheduled air flights are close to their finest safety record—only 1.4 passenger fatalities for every 100,000,000 passenger miles. Ultimately, the airlines will be even better. They share with other branches of the transportation industry the secret of safety, which is to be aware at all times of the possibility of danger.

Awareness of danger is the reason the transportation industry and all others with a high accident potential have been able to minimize fatalities and injuries. Knowing how accidents are caused, they have developed margins of safety. It is usually only when the margins are violated that trouble results. For example, railroad accidents increased during the war when schedules were stepped up and equipment maintenance was not up to par.

Private operations of automobiles can share the safety secret, if they want to. Most of them do. Automobile accidents are invariably the result of thoughtless operation, or operation by persons who have only a nodding acquaintance with the hazards of what they're doing.

Green Marketing

NO VIOLATION of law was committed by European dealers who used Marshall plan money to buy scrap metal for resale to American industry at higher prices. The dealers were guilty only of a breach of good faith under the commitments made by their governments to use United States aid for the rehabilitation of their own economic systems. Perhaps they reasoned that American dollars were more useful than scrap metal.

In the United States under wartime regulations, diversion of material for profit was called black marketing. When wartime regulations were lifted, manipulation of material for quick profit was called a gray marketing—and still is. Perhaps a better name for it would be green marketing, the green signifying the color of a dollar bill.

Black, gray and green marketing are not confined to any one country. They flourish wherever quick profits can be turned by irregular manipulation of much-wanted goods. Among the many Americans who will howl in anguish because some Europeans are masters of manipulation too may be some who should be the last to cast the first stone.

Did You Know

Storms that are commonly called "northeasters" along the Atlantic coast of the United States usually move up from the south or southwest.

The tea bag got its start when a merchant distributed samples of his tea in cloth bags and his customers discovered that a handy way to make tea was to pour boiling water over them.

New Anti-Trust Policy

By David Lawrence

Jail Sentences Now More Likely for Violators

WASHINGTON

BUSINESS men who violate the anti-trust laws are in greater danger of going to jail as a penalty for their misdeeds than at any time in the history of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Attorney General Clark announces that hereafter the department of justice will no longer accept "no contest" or what is known as "nolo contendere" pleas on the part of business in important cases and that instead there will be insistence on jail sentences in criminal cases.

Mr. Clark revealed this in a copyrighted interview in the current issue of "U. S. News & World Report." He did not say what prompted the new policy, but he did remark:

"We have found in the past that, in paying fines, companies and associations have drawn by lot, more or less, as to who would pay the fines."

The so-called "no contest" method is one in which the accused company or its personnel do not admit guilt but merely agree not to contest the suit and hence pay whatever fine is required. Many cases have been settled this way in recent years, though at times the department of justice has subsequently inferred that a "no contest" plea was really a confession of malpractice.

MR. CLARK was asked how he drew the line between the filing of criminal and civil suits under the anti-trust laws. He said:

"Where the evidence shows clearly the parties involved have wilfully violated the law, such as a revival or continuation by them of practices previously condemned by the courts, or where it is clear that the parties knew that their action was unlawful—we bring a criminal action . . .

"We're not going to accept 'nolo contendere' pleas except in those cases that are not aggravated. We are very careful about our criminal cases."

The attorney general was asked if businesses had an opportunity to terminate an illegal practice before a criminal suit is instituted. His reply was:

"If upon investigation we found that the violations were then present we would not give them an opportunity. If we investigated a case today and found that a year ago or six months ago they had been engaged in a practice that was illegal, but had abandoned it, we would probably not take criminal action. But if we found the violation presently recurring we possibly would go ahead, the idea being that if you didn't do so it would just license them to carry on violations of the statute."

MR. CLARK SAID he felt that American business men knew their limitations under the anti-trust laws and primarily that they cannot fix prices by agreement with their competitors. He added that an agreement could just as well be one to reduce as to increase prices, the infraction being to consult competitors for any purpose of agreeing on prices.

The attorney general said the latchstring was out at the department of justice to companies or their counsel to discuss their problems related to the anti-trust laws. He said "clearance" when given is for future action only and that if there are violations of the "clearance" understanding, prosecutions could follow.

The attorney general indicated that from 40 to 50 per cent of the 100 largest companies in the country have been or are now involved in anti-trust actions of some kind. He stated that most of the complaints originate among business competitors and that only rarely has the department itself initiated anti-trust proceedings. He feels that companies are pretty well advised by counsel of what the courts have ruled in anti-trust decisions and that there certainly ought not to be any doubt as to the area in which criminal actions can be brought.

THERE ARE CERTAIN undetermined areas where civil actions are brought. Thus, Mr. Clark said the department is at present working on some cases in what is known as price leadership where a large business posts its price and others follow. He remarked:

"Sometimes it is something other than just 'leadership.' It is natural for businessmen to meet in clubs or associations, and frequently, though they may not realize it, they eventually are agreeing on prices."

Are Profits Too Big?

By Raymond Moley

NUMBER One Whipping Boy for 1949 will be business profits. Anxious to legislate reckless campaign charges, Democratic leaders will begin the attack on congress. Labor, with its old cost-of-living argument slipping away, will fall back on the argument of excessive corporation profits. Thus, a money-hungry administration and wage-hungry labor will hunt the same real or imaginary game.

Before this chase gets under way, it may be well to examine the reality of the so-called profits.

It will be difficult in the face of partisan statistics to get over the facts of business life. Superficially, profits seem to be very large, because not everybody is talking about the same dollars. It is true that in gross dollars business profits have more than doubled since 1940. But units of production have increased two-thirds. And profits measured in purchasing power are no higher. Labor claims increase in line with purchasing power but denies the same equity for stockholders. What is sauce for the goose is apparently not sauce for the gander.

THERE ARE OTHER equally important considerations.

Profits are not all used to pay dividends. They are in considerable part essential to the preservation and renewal of productive plants. All plant buildings, machinery and the like cost twice as much now as they did in 1939. The depreciation rates allowed by the treasury in tax assessments have not made allowance for this. But if 10 years of depreciation at 10 per cent would by 1949 reach 100 per cent of purchasing value, business would need twice as much money for replacements. Present tax policies plus a new tax on profits would tend to destroy the nation's greatest asset—its productive plant.

Moreover, if a commodity bought three or four years ago is now sold for more than it costs, the difference is figured by the treasury as a profit. But if the dealer tries to repurchase the same commodities, he must pay more. Here the treasury has admitted a measure relief. It permits the figures of inventories as if the last items bought were the first sold. That is, "last in, first out."

CORPORATIONS have avoided bad consequences by another expedient. They have made price increases larger than cost increases, but they have withheld dividends and ploughed back earnings into their businesses. Therefore, they have more working capital. The rate of earnings has been returned at the old capital figure.

But this process of self-financing will peter out. It is contrary to the old principle of a capitalistic economy. Under that principle old capital should be replaced fully by depreciations and recovered in prices, with the remainder going to stockholders. New capital should be sought from the free capital market, which is supplied by the money saved by citizens of all sorts.

If government policy shuts down on money ploughed back and also checks the savings of the people, the basis of our system of opportunity will be eaten away. Our ancestors were commended for risking their savings in ventures for which they expected, if successful, to get good rewards. Today such savings are attacked at the source. If this twofold attack of government and labor is successful, capital will dry up and the government will be the only supplier of capital. It is easy to see that at the end of that road government will own business.

All these considerations must be urged with increasing force if the drive for new taxes and new wage increases is to be slowed down or stopped.

More Beds and Coffins

By The Associated Press

BIELEFELD, German — Bedsteads and coffins have been put on a priority furniture production list by German bizonal economic authorities.

Every fourth German in the Anglo-American zone is without a bed, according to estimates for furniture production needs which are placed at 10,000,000 single beds. The two zones have a total population of approximately 40,000,000.

Anglo-American control authories have approval an allocation of 185,000 cubic yards of lumber for furniture production and an additional 60,000 cubic yards for the manufacture of coffins. These figures indicate that one coffin will be manufactured for every third bed.

We Have Noticed It Too

THE Daily Oklahoman and the Memphis Commercial Appeal have both taken note of a curious affliction that seems to affect drivers in Memphis and Oklahoma City whenever it rains.

The Daily Oklahoman describes it as follows:

"No sooner do the first raindrops begin to spatter on the windshield than a number of motorists begin to lose their equilibrium. They begin to run red lights an dotherwise drive recklessly. Apparently they have the impression that something terrible happens to people who get caught out in a rainstorm and they imperil life and limb in their eagerness to get in out of the weather . . . The disappearance of ordinary sanity from the driver's wheel at the first hint of a deluge is observable on every street of Oklahoma City. Every rule of careful driving is washed from the books. The worst excited of the offenders would drive no faster and no more frantically if machinegun bullets instead of raindrops were pelting down."

The Commercial Appeal sums up the whole set of symptoms by calling them similar to those of hydrophobia.

Up To Their Necks Already

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Dec. 16, 1938.

Great Britain laid the groundwork for a trade war if necessary — against the totalitarian states.

Clyde Hinamon of Grand Prairie township was elected president of the Marion County Township Trustees and Clerks association at the annual meeting held in the Knights of Pythias hall.

Mrs. Phoebe Ann Ault, 68, died at her home on North State street.

Members of the Dii Penates club met for a dinner and gift exchange at Hotel Harding. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Mae Evans, Mrs. J. C. Bonen and Mrs. Ray Williams.

Mrs. Fred Romine was elected president when the Social circle of St. Paul's English Lutheran church met at her home on Chestnut street.

Because those working in the field of education tend to accept established institutions and values without question, education has become a "sopping up" process in which invention rather than reason is the prime factor, Dr. Arthur J. Klein, dean of the college of education at Ohio State university said in addressing an audience at the opening of a two-day conference of educators at Edison Junior High school.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Dec. 16, 1928.

Herschell V. Price, 64, Galion life insurance agent, died at his home there.

Isaac Marx, 88, retired Marion clothing merchant died suddenly at his home on South State street.

An epidemic of influenza continued to spread in Ohio and the situation had become so serious at Bucyrus that schools were closed there temporarily by Supt. E. N. Deitrich who himself was confined to his home by the ailment.

Mrs. C. G. Smith and daughter Virginia of South Prospect street returned from Madison, Wis., where Miss Smith was a student at the University of Wisconsin. The university had been closed because of influenza which had attacked 1,600 students.

Howard M. Hoch, 64, Huber Co. employe, died at his home on Wilson avenue.

Free Teeth

Certain categories of sailors from the seaports of the world are said to be swarming aboard Britain-bound vessels—in search of free false teeth and spectacles.

The word has gone round the bars of Georgetown and Lisbon and Honolulu that Britain has an excellent free state medical service and that a foreign seaman, or any alien for that matter, is entitled to participate. Mr. Bevan was questioned on this last week in the House of Commons; he had not heard the rumors but was skeptical of Viscount Hinchingbrooke's report that lascars in the Middle East are peddling their false teeth and spectacles.

As a nation we are suspicious of foreigners; unless we are careful the toothless Frenchman or the near-sighted Greek is going to notice a special lack of welcome at the ports. "I suppose," officials will ask him, "that you have come to batten upon our teeth and spectacles?" In an unkind world people do not often get something for nothing, and one has a certain sympathy for the foreign sailor. (Some of these international conferences will need watching, however: London is no place today for the old and the blind.) What can be done to stop this threat to stocks of British porcelain and glass? Is it a matter for the British Council? An appeal might be made to masters of foreign ships to observe a quota of toothless sailors. At all events, the Ministry of Health has a new problem on its hands and the Tourist Board a new stimulus for its "Come to Britain" campaign. —The Manchester Guardian.

Bipartisan Co-operation

By George E. Sokolsky

OVER the weekend in Washington it became increasingly clear from all sorts of indications that there is room in the United States for bi-partisan relationships within the two-party system. This does not mean that Republicans need to flop about in that no man's land of ideas generally called liberalism, where principle disappears in the shadows and opportunism becomes a charming lodestone. It does mean that in the critical state of continuing war, an area exists in which bipartisan or even non-partisan attitudes are essential for the country's welfare.

The following subjects may well be moved from the sphere of partisan consideration:

▶The foreign policy of the United States. The bipartisan policy, as practiced since 1944, largely under the aegis of John Foster Dulles, has been more successful than was assumed possible at the start. This does not mean that no criticism either of policy or its conduct should exist. Every citizen of this country has the legal and moral right to criticize or even oppose any policy of our government in time of war as in time of peace. This is an inalienable right of citizenship.

However, once the policy is formed, after due reference to the leadership of both parties in and out of congress, it is possible to face the world with a united front. Whenever this method has been employed, it has been productive of great good. In fact, the employment of a bipartisan personnel at the United Nations and at international conferences has given strength to American attitudes.

▶A bipartisan defense policy. In this realm, the progress has been small, principally because only Secretary of Defense Forrestal has promoted it, with little support in or out of congress. Yet, if there is to be a bipartisan foreign policy, the defense policy must be co-ordinated with it.

The national defense cannot be a matter of risk. Competition among the services, while wholesome at stages where competition increases ingenuity and fervor, becomes dangerous at the political level. The unification of services requires even a stiffer law and the retention of civilian control is often imperiled by partisan politics, which stimulates personal "empire-building."

This question needs to be viewed with the utmost objectivity, as what is involved is our national existence and the lives of our sons. There is room for a wide latitude of bipartisan action in this sphere. There can be no question as to the requirement; the doubt arises from what we can afford to expend without wrecking our economy.

▶The report of the Hoover committee. This committee for the reorganization of the executive branch of government is by its nature and organization bipartisan. It consists of members appointed by the President, the president of the senate and the speaker of the house. Its membership is bipartisan. Its work has been non-partisan; its task forces have been appointed without regard to party membership.

The difficulty that this committee faces is the natural disinclination of those in office to vote themselves out of office or to find themselves being reduced from primary to subordinate positions agreeable. On many matters, the committee is in agreement and reports on such subjects are beginning to be issued. It is most encouraging that the report on the reorganization of the state department and the conduct of the foreign policy has been made available without objection. This means that two such divergent personalities as Herbert Hoover and Dean Acheson have been able to join in the committee proposal.

ON SOME MATTERS, there may be serious disagreements among the committee members, resulting in a majority and a minority report. It can only be hoped that such are few in number. What is important, however, is that when these reports and legislative proposals come to congress, they should not be batted about solely on partisan ground. The Chambers-Hiss case, if it proves nothing else, does force the conclusion that the state department is badly organized, sprawling, chaotic. It must be made taut. The same is probably true of most departments, because they have grown up under functional acts of congress without organic structural consideration. This ought to be corrected about every decade.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

As It Must Seem to Lots of Folks

I did a stretch in the hoosegow
For stealing a sugar bun;
They got me fast with my detailed past
When I carried a water gun.
How swiftly the wagon took me
For being a two-block tout!
So I'm playing it safe where the fetters don't chafe,
By selling my country out!

II

The maximum speed I noticed
In showing there was no flaw
In chapter or verse to cover my case
In breaking a parking law.
Behind iron bars I landed
And notice no tear-dimmed eyes
So now to keep free with my full liberty
In treason I specialize!

III

My sentence was extra speedy
The time that I swiped two pears;
I was nailed in a flash the time I got rash
And spat on some subway stairs.
They got me for one-way-street stuff
And weren't the least bit slow
So now I prefer to keep out of stir
By spying for Uncle Joe

IV

The time that I broke a window
I landed in court slambang.
The rockpile I got for a fight on a dock
And served with a crude chain-gang;
I laughed at a sign, "No Fishing,"
And slept in a cell that night
I got punishment grim when my headlights were dim
But in spying I do all right!

V

I smoked in a theater lobby—
(Oh, boy the abuse you take!)—
I passed a red light when my brakes weren't tight
And entered a prison gate!
There were no cries of "Let's go easy,"
And no one yelled, "Have a care!"
You must traffic with Joe if you're anxious to know
There's plenty of time to spare.

VI

I once took an unleashed puppy
Out into a public park,
And in two hours flat I was up on the mat
Accused of a crime quite dark;
For bicycling on the sidewalk
To court I was swiftly run
There was nobody there with a nonchalant air
To say, "It's red herring, son!"

Ye Gotham Bugle & Banner

How can you expect Hollywood stars to stay sober after seeing their latest releases?...The orchestras now strike up 'A-feudin' and A-fightin'" when Billy Rose and Moss Hart appear in the same place. We're late getting around to it but here is a long delayed cheer for "June Bride" with Bob Montgomery and Bette Davis as our idea of a really grand evening at the majic lantern shows. ..Dunninger is stirring the video audiences. The other night he got Jim Lyons, Bronx political leader on the stage, asked him to think of something and then said, "You are thinking of a luncheon—the date is December 28th. I think the place is the Saints & Sinners." Jim swears it was right and that there was positively no previous contact. . A racket now at its peak in restaurants (and it can't be operated without the connivance of the cashier and proprietor): Having the waiter bring the change so that no bill will be under a five-spot, the idea being to force the saperoos to tip exorbitantly.

THE OUTCAST

He doesn't rate;
His life is grim;
No three-cent stamp
Is named for him!

In these red herring identifications it strikes us that Harry Truman is a poor judge of fish.

Why Cinema Review Readers Go Nuts

"Lunacy in a family is not a funny thing, nor does it seem fitting and tasteful as a matter to be treated as farce. Neither does a giggling half-wit seem an apt comic character. Somehow it just isn't funny to see a pitiful affliction made a joke."—Bosley Crowther on "Miss Tatlock's Millions."

"Far from being tasteless, "Miss Tatlock's Millions" holds to a high level of fantastic humor. It is generally delightful entertainment. Charles Bracket's idea of having a man masquerade as a half-witted heir makes for elegant nonsense."—Howard Barnes.

Bedtime

By Truman Twill

One of the problems getting worse instead of better is bedtime. The time isn't far distant when it's going to take a law to get the country to sleep in time to get up the next morning.

The only people who get to bed at bedtime any more are those with sense enough to admit they're tired. There are fewer of these each year. As the oldsters die off, they are replaced by persons who never learned what bedtime was—the children of the 20th century.

They are the victims of electric lights, radio and central heating, which have encouraged them to stay up later and later. They are the victims, also, of double feature movies, automobiles, graveyard shifts in industry, organized sports and better street lighting, which have enticed them to fill up their evenings with activity outside the home.

In the course of the last 25 years, children whose bedtime started out to be 8 o'clock have sneaked up on the clock until bedtime for their own children now is postponed indefinitely. The old-fashioned excuses—drinks of water and bites to eat—aren't used by tiny tots any more. The modern child wants to keep track of fights, 20-year-old movies on television and find out who won the jackpot on radio give-away programs.

He is not fazed by a parental threat to go to bed and leave him holding the fort alone. That would suit him just fine, and he might even invite in a few pals to share his enjoyment while papa and mama grit their teeth and wonder whither parenthood. This is why there will have to be a law about bedtime. The problem is getting too tough for parents to handle.

It's even worse than that, because they need a law to handle themselves. Chronic lack of sleep has become a national scandal. At any given moment of any day, a cross-section of the public condition would show more than half of all adults wishing they could take a nap. They cannot hold the pace set for them by the rising generation.

Of course a law would be impossible to enforce. But it would have the effect of making lack of sleep seem more like a novelty and less like an imposition foisted off on mankind by modern improvements that make it so easy to stay up late at night.

Nothing said herein should be considered as a proposal for doing away with any modern improvement, least of all 20-year-old movies featured on television, which are such an improvement over most of the new movies that they should have been exhumed long before this.
